ASK FEDERAL BUILDING BE ERECTED IN THIS CITY

West Glendale Association Urges Action; Resolution On Depot Location

DURING the meeting last night at the Columbus avenue school, members of the West Glendale Improvement Association formulated desires and discussion into resolutions advocating a plea to Postmaster General Hubert Work for a federal building in which to house Glendale's postoffice; and another to the City Council in criticism of the Council's joining with private interests to purchase two lots to open up Cerritos avenue for a location of the Southern Pacific depot, and requesting that the Council submit the entire matter to the State Railroad Commission for a definite ruling that will "protect the interests of the people."

Another action taken by the gathering was the endorsement of the recent action of the Central Avenue Parent-Teacher Association, declaring the bridges over the north wash unsafe for traffic and urging that in the future all bridges be constructed of concrete.

R. Streit, president, was in charge of the meeting, which was attended by a large crowd of Glendalians enthusiastic in taking part in the discussions of the subjects presented.

Federal Building

The resolution regarding the Federal building was stated as follows:

"Whereas, prior to the first day of July, 1922, the postoffice of the city of Glendale occupied a space of 2500 square feet, and on that date moved to new rental quarters exceeding 5000 square feet, and

"Whereas, the postmaster general is now within one year calling for bids for rental of 12,000 square feet, thus evidencing the phenomenal growth of Glendale, and

"Whereas, the population of Glendale, now in excess of 40,000 and increasing very rapidly, would sustain and is entitled to a Federal building.

"Therefore, be it resolved by the West Glendale Improvement association in meeting assembled in the Columbus Avenue school, this 12th day of June, 1923, that:

"The postmaster general be advised of the above facts and respectfully urged to amend his instructions calling for a rental proposition to ask for tenders of a suitable site on which to erect a Federal building.

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the postmaster general, and also to Congressman Lineberger and Senator Shortridge urging immediate action, and a copy of this resolution to be forwarded to the different organizations of the city for their action and consideration."

The resolution on the depot subject reads:

"Whereas, The city of Glendale

Find Mutilated Body Of Woman in Lake

GARY, Ind., June 13.—Badly mutilated, the body of a woman about 35 years old, was taken from the lake near here early today. The body was well dressed, but neither coat nor hat was found. Labels in her shoes showed them to have been purchased from "Fyfer, Detroit, Mich." She wore a plain gold wedding ring and a small silver ring.

Hasty examination showed all teeth knocked out, the face discolored by bruises, and it was said there were evidences of a skull fracture. Police expressed the belief the woman was murdered and thrown into the lake.

Report of Bulgarian Disorders Censored

LONDON, June 13.—Further disorders were reported from Bulgaria today, but the real situation is obscured by a rigorous censorship imposed by the new revolutionary movement at Sofia.

Revolutionary troops engaged the bodyguard of former Premier Alexander Stambulisky. Casualties resulted, but the outcome of the skirmish is not known.

M. Douralikoff, former minister of agriculture in the "peasant government," was arrested while trying to reach the Turkish border.

An unconfirmed report from Paris said a large peasant army, estimated at almost 100,000 men, was moving upon Sofia.

Sufferin' Snakes Suffocated; Fire Fries Thousands

ST. PATRICK driving the snakes out of Ireland could have done no better than forest fires in southern California mountains this week, according to Dru Nicoles, district wire chief of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Company, who returned here today after keeping wires open between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Thousands of rattlesnakes were suffocated to death in Castaic and Sandberg canyons along the Ridge Route, he reports. They were unusually prevalent this year and a menace to line riders and forest rangers.

It should be a good summer for bootleggers with a shortage of snakes in sight.

$50,000 DAMAGE IN FOREST FIRES

Glendale District Phone Employes Give Aid in Fighting Flames

Forest fires which burned over 10,000 acres and did damage estimated at $50,000 in the northern part of Los Angeles county, have been either extinguished or brought under control, according to information to County Forester Flintham's office today.

Fires in San Francesquito canyon, Bouquet canyon, Piru canyon and several places on the ridge route for a time threatened damage to several summer resorts and oil holdings.

Glendale district telephone employes in the operating department have been kept busy during the last forty-eight hours in maintaining service over the fire-burned areas north of here. Two poles were destroyed, and repair trucks were rushed from here yesterday under the personal direction of D. W. Nicoles, wire chief.

While no interruption in service between Los Angeles and San Francisco occurred, it was necessary for the telephone men to fight fire and wind, the crew exinguishone blaze in Castaic canyon. When working on the swaying poles they had to be equipped with safety belts because of cyclonic elements.

Leaps Ridge Route

The fire jumped the ridge route and burned over 600 acres in twenty minutes, according to Mr. Nicoles' thrilling account of the fire. County and state and national foresters, augmented by hundreds of volunteers, were battling flames in the brush and trees scattered over all northern Los Angeles county, for which Glendale is the telephone center.

Ashes were blown over Glendale last evening from a fire subdued during the afternoon in the vicinity of Newhall, where oil property was endangered.

Pursley, garage owner, is in a semi-conscious condition at University police station, and police were searching for "Charlie" Perrin and a man named Seymour today as the aftermath of an all-night orgy at a West Eleventh street hotel.

Miss Van Langen's body was removed to an undertaking establishment, where an autopsy was ordered to ascertain whether or not she had been drugged. Police said it was apparent she had been attacked.

Halt Reissue of Old Moving Picture Films

WASHINGTON, June 13. — The federal trade commission took another rap today at motion picture companies which re-issue old films under new names.

An order to cease and desist from such practices was issued against the Fox Film corporations of New York.

In putting out old films, the commission said companies should state in their advertising posters and contracts that the film was re-issued and that the original name should be given.

CLUB LEADER IN MID-WEST GUEST HERE

St. Louis Federation Head Brings Greetings to Local Women's Society

By KATHERINE V. SINKS
Of The Evening News Staff

Greetings from mid-west club women were brought to Tuesday Afternoon club members yesterday afternoon by Mrs. John S. Payne, president of the St. Louis District Federation of Women's Clubs of Missouri, who occupied a place of honor on the platform, displaying hearty enthusiasm in observing the administration of club affairs by her hostesses.

Upon her presentation by Mrs Daniel Campbell, Mrs. Payne complimented the Tuesday Afternoon club members on their club home, told briefly of her club activities in Missouri and of her membership on a civic committee of the city of St. Louis to spend over $80,000,000 in civic improvement; and spoke with keen anticipation of returning to California next June to attend the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs in Los Angeles.

The club session, witnessed by Mrs. Payne, was full of interesting things.

Tribute to Mrs. Tower

With the sudden death of Mrs. A. W. Tower, past president, occurring since the last club meeting, her associates can not yet grasp full realization of their loss. She had taken an active part in all club affairs and her absence was keenly felt yesterday by all who knew her.

A beautiful tribute was paid to Mrs. Tower yesterday when everyone in the auditorium stood while Mesdames Helen Graham Cole, Charles A. Parker, A. M. Draper of the Nevin quartet, and Mrs. Charles H. Meadows sang "In the Time of Roses." They were accompanied by Mrs. Ripley.

Other events of the meeting were the reading by Mrs. John C. Dunn, secretary, of sixty-nine applications for membership; the announcement by Mrs. C. W. Houston that 500 auditorium chairs have been paid for; the report from Mrs. A. H. Montgomery that the Madrigal club had brought in $76.72 and that Mrs. W. E. Pelley in charge of the booth at the industrial exposition, had realized $75.75; that Mr. Powers, who had decorated the interior of the clubhouse had made a gift of $100 to the club.

Expresses Appreciation

Of interest to the club women was a letter read by Mrs. Campbell from Mrs. Charles H. Toll, expressing her appreciation for the basket of messages presented to her at a recent social affair at the club. Mrs. Toll's letter read:

"The contents of the lovely gold and green basket have been read and enjoyed greatly. They are to be treasured by me as an evidence of your kind and generous thoughts for me, sent in the desire to give friendly support to a beginner in a large and responsible position.

"Green and gold, significant colors! For green betokens that which does not fade, but is everlasting; while gold indicates that which is precious. Precious, indeed, is this expression of your friendship in golden thoughts that are to be kept as a miser hoards his store, in the treasure house of memory! And everlasting is my sincere appreciation of all you have expressed and implied, and

URGE U. S. ACT IN CHINA TANGLE

American Lives in Danger And Business Prestige Destroyed, Claim

SHANGHAI, June 13.—The American Association of China and the American Chamber of Commerce, following a meeting today, united in cabling Secretary of State Hughes a demand that the United States government act to end "intolerable conditions" existing in China. The message charged that the situation was brought about by "Washington's failure to act aggressively in the present crisis."

American lives are being endangered and business prestige destroyed "by lack of strong action," the message declared, outlining a series of drastic steps which were urged upon Secretary Hughes for imposition on China.

Plan of Action

"We urge action along the following lines until a strong and satisfactory government is functioning in China," the cable continues:

"First—Suspension of all benefits to China under the Washington conference.

"Second — Disarmament of troops returned to their homes.

"Third—Place Chinese finance under foreign supervision, and place foreign guards on the lines of communication, both land and water.

"Fourth—Foreign garrisons at strategic points throughout China.

"Fifth—Suspension of return of Boxer indemnity.

"Sixth — Co-operation with Great Britain in providing remedies for the present situation."

In closing the cable declares these measures meet with the approval of substantial Chinese business and banking interests who can not act for fear of persecution at the hands of the present regime.

Fail to Get Trace of Mrs. J. H. Sherman

Continued search by police and private detective agencies of Southern California has so far failed to locate Mrs. J. H. Sherman, 341 West Broadway, who did not return home from a business trip to Los Angeles Monday morning.

It has been learned that Mrs. Sherman instructed a woman who was coming to do some work for her on Tuesday not to do so, as she "intended to go out of town for a few days with a woman friend." Mrs. Sherman also left written instructions for a gardener working about her home on Monday.

Friends, as well as her husband and son, are mystified by the continued absence of Mrs. Sherman, especially in view of the fact that intensive search has failed to uncover a clew as to why she should disappear.

LOCAL GIRL, AGE 16, IS MISSING

Mary Byrd Goes to Dance in Los Angeles With Brother And Disappears

The parents of Miss Mary Byrd, aged 16 and a first year student at the Glendale Union High school, are grief-stricken today over the failure of their daughter to return home at 337 West Harvard street, after an evening spent with her elder brother, James W. Byrd, aged 19, at a Los Angeles Dancing pavilion, last night.

The police of Los Angeles are working on the case, in conjunction with the girl's father, James S. Byrd, and his two sons, James W. and R. L. Byrd, the former her chaperone at the dance.

"Mary was a wholesome, gay-hearted, happy girl," her tearful mother told the reporter. "What can have happened to her, none of us understand. Why, James scarcely let her out of his sight one minute, the whole evening—until suddenly, he noticed she was gone. It was about 11 o'clock, he told me.

Search Continues

"James naturally did everything he could to find his sister. But she was not there any more. So at last he came home. Then, when we learned what had happened, we began the search again and are still looking.

"Oh, who could have done this thing!" cried Mrs. Byrd, with tears in her eyes. "What does it mean? It all seems like a nightmare. None of us had any sleep last night. All we want is to have Mary back.

It appears that Mr. and Mrs. James S. Byrd were likewise in Los Angeles last night. They had gone in to see a film at a popular theatre. The last glimpse the mother had of her vanished daughter was when James and Mary passed them on the street, early in the evening.

The brother and sister then

CALLS PUBLIC HEARING ON QUESTIONS OF TAXES

City Council Asks Public to Be Present on June 20 At Budget Hearing

THE City Council has set 10 a. m. Wednesday, June 20, as the time for the public hearing, as required by the charter, upon the budget for the next fiscal year which commences the first of July.

All citizens have the privilege of attending this session and asking questions or expressing their opinion in regard to the budget as proposed by the City Council. At the conclusion of this meeting the budget as tentatively itemized will either be adopted or modified.

The municipal tax rate will be reduced next year from $1 to 90 cents on $100 of valuation. The city's tax rate, including the special park tax, is being reduced from $1.52 to $1.12.

"It doesn't make any difference how much the municipal tax rate is reduced," remarked City Controller H. C. Saulsberry recently, "There will be no perceptible difference in the general tax. This year the municipal tax was only 34.8 per cent of the total."

Largest Reduction

The largest reduction in local taxation will come in the elimination of the special 30-cent park tax. The estimated cost of maintaining Patterson park will be $13,910. However, this will be paid out of $30,000 which will be returned to the city treasury when the deal involving the return of the Verdugo park has passed through escrow.

Taxes this year supplied $219,815 to the city administration. Upon a valuation which will exceed last year by over $8,000,000 and at the lower tax rate, the estimated revenue will be about $270,000.

The total revenue this year amounts to $344,066. It is estimated that it will amount to only $12,934 more or $357,000 next year.

Total expenses this year amount to $278,975. It is estimated that this amount will be $58,554 greater next year, or $337,529.

Important Factors

This increase is due largely to two factors, the estimated increase in the cost of operating street lights out of general taxation, as approved at the recent election, from $14,000 to $25,000, or $11,000; and the estimated increase in the cost of street maintenance from $16,000 to $49,000, or $33,000. The two items together make an increase of $44,000.

The police department commenced the fiscal year with thirteen patrolmen. It will commence the next fiscal year with eighteen patrolmen. Its cost of operation, therefore, has been increased from $53,465 to $63,876, or $10,411. In addition, equipment this year costs $2,257, while $3,766 has been appropriated for next year. This includes $2,000 for the purchase of a six-cylinder automobile for emergency calls.

The fire department commenced this fiscal year with twelve firemen. This number has been increased to eighteen. Its cost of operation has been increased from $33,442 to $43,200, or $9,758. Payments on new equipment this year amount to $8,729. Next year

Protecting the Forests
Richardson as Governor

By Gil A. Cowan

THREE major building operations which should attract the attention of Glendale residents during the summer months are the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital off of East Wilson avenue, the new Glendale Union High school plant on West Broadway and Verdugo road, and the new six-story Security Trust and Savings bank building at the corner of Brand boulevard and Broadway.

The sanitarium and school buildings are well under way, representing about a million-dollar investment, exclusive of the land on which they are located. The bank structure also will have more than one hundred thousand dollars' worth of steel, cement and other materials and labor welded together into the finest office structure in the city.

The completion of the Lawson building also provides an interesting exhibit of the builders' art, while, if you search around the city, there are many examples of architecture that are original and pleasing.

It must be good for the hard-workingmen who carry the hod and lay the bricks and place the plumbing and do the carpentry work to look at the product of the little army which, under the generalship of a contractor, starts from the earth and builds an edifice.

The Presbyterian church, which is being completed, offers an example of pride which may be exhibited not alone by the workers, but the donors, the pastors and even the Great Architect of the Universe who must be pleased at man's endeavor to improve his conditions.

Councilman Sam Davis is a reader of The Glendale Evening News. He noted the accounts of floods back in his home state of Kansas, which he knows better than Glendale.

"The account The Evening News gave of the flood was as good as a picture. It had every river in the right place. And I could realize just what the damage was. That's why I like to read The Glendale Evening News."

The dispatches referred to are a part of the International News Service, the greatest independent news-gathering organization of its kind in the world. It has paid correspondents the world over to get the news, and its slogan is well worth remembering:

"Get it FIRST, but FIRST get it RIGHT."

That is what the Kansas City bureau evidently did, in the judgment of Councilman Davis. And The Evening News presented readers with the story, not depending upon them to find it in some city newspaper.

The International News Service, the Central Press Association, the McClure Syndicate, the International Syndicate, the George Matthew Adams features—not to mention a dozen more sources of information—give you the latest in news events, pictures and general information.

That is but a part of the service rendered by The Glendale Evening News in providing this city with a real daily newspaper.

Forest fires in northern Los Angeles county have been wreaking havoc. Indeed, they have been so close to Glendale that the smoke from the blazing brush has cast a haze over Mt. Verdugo for the last forty-eight hours.

"Careless week-end campers are thought to have started the flames," according to the newspaper verdict. People cannot be too cautious in lighting fires, dropping ready-made cigarettes or carelessly tossing away matches which have not been broken.

It is so easy to extinguish a camp fire with sand. It is no trouble at all to step heavily on a cigarette or cigar stub. And everyone should make a habit of breaking the burned match before throwing it away. It is the only safe way and our forests demand that simple rules be followed.

Too few people realize that permits for camp fires are necessary on national forest domain; they also are not aware that severe penalties are inflicted on those starting conflagrations by accident or otherwise.

Through the far-sightedness of Senator A. Burlingame Johnson of Pasadena, who co-operated with the state forestry department in bettering protective methods by recent legislation, every timberland owner will be required to provide fire-fighting equipment or stand a tax, not to exceed 3 cents an acre, for this purpose.

In a few legal phrases the forests of California today find themselves more thoroughly protected, and the forestry department has entered into a constructive reforestation program which in time will reflect the wisdom of the Pasadena senator, as well as the governor who takes an interest in the economic needs of the state rather than the blatant bla-bla of political office-seekers.

Less than a month has passed since the legislature adjourned at Sacramento, yet California seems to be sailing along the same prosperous channels without blinking at Friend Richardson fulfilling his pledge to pare down costs of government.

Indeed, the people of this state hardly realize that a new regime has been successfully inaugurated and proceeding on the theory that it is a government of the people and for the people—not of the politicians for the politicians.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Share In Honors

The approaching marriage of two of the popular young members of the society was the incentive of a very delightful affair given by the members of the aid society of the Central Avenue Methodist church, on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. V. Hunter Brink, 1124 South Central avenue.

The prospective brides are Miss Murle Bowen whose marriage to Edward Clauson is announced for June 20, and Miss Mary Ostergard, who is to marry Alvin Hall, June 26.

"Hearts and Flowers" might be used to describe the decorations used to beautify the living and dining rooms and reception hall. Ropes of feathery plumosis interspersed with hearts and cupids festooned these rooms while roses, Shasta daisies and spring flowers in profusion were used in the other rooms.

Further emphasizing the motif of the occasion, two tiny little maidens dressed, one in pink and the other in white, with Cupid's wings and tiny bows and arrows, shot notes of congratulation to the complimented guests.

Each prospective bride was presented with an exquisite basket of spring blossoms and the two little cupids assisted by Dorabelle Evans and Beryl Mitchell were the little messengers who carried the gifts from the adjoining room.

Many beautiful gifts of linen, silver, china and glass were presented by the forty guests present.

Delicious refreshments were served by the members of the society assisting Mrs. Brink.

Shrine Card Party

The White Shrine of Glendale will entertain their many friends with a card party and dance on Saturday night, June 30, at the Masonic Temple, South Brand boulevard and Colorado, it is announced.

It is anticipated this will be one of the most brilliant social affairs the White Shrine has given this social season. Syncopations for the dancing will be furnished by the ever-popular Kelley's Shrine Club orchestra. Tables will also be provided for those desirous of playing cards.

The committee in charge of arrangements for this affair are Mrs. William McMullen, chairman; Mrs. Maude Evans, Warren Roberts, Alvah Leland and Porter Custer. Mrs. Edith Richards is chairman in charge of the card tables. Other committees will be announced later.

Honor Teacher

Morgan, Mrs. Morgan, George McLeod, A. L. Chandler, W. W. McElroy and others, who are to leave shortly for vacations in the east.

The pleasurable feature was the announcement by Rev. and Mrs. Morgan that they are to return to Glendale to reside.

The S. F. O. stands for "Service for Others" and this was the keynote of the appreciative talk given by Rev. E. Ernest Ford of the work done in the church by Rev. Morgan.

Late in the evening refreshments were served.

Compliment Club

Compliments were showered on Madrigal club members and assisting artists last night upon their third appearance for the season at the Glendale Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the Women's Society of the church. It is needless to speak of the talent of these well known singers. Suffice it to say that their program was delightfully given and was even more finished than their two regular seasonal programs.

Of course much praise is due Mrs. Charles A. Parker, club director, and sharing with her in the applause last night were the club members, Mesdames Helen Graham Cole, A. M. Draper, Virginia Freeman, soloists, Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, reader, Mrs. John A. Wright, acompanist, and Miss Lilla Litch, organist.

The readings by Mrs. Montgomery were most heartily received. She gave "The Boat Race" (Redding," and "Aux Italiens" (Meredith) with operatic selections introduced by members of the Madrigal club. In apreciation for her success the club members sent her a beautiful floral gift.

During the afternoon a pleasing program was presented. Readings by Frances Hobensack, Mrs. A. B. Morrison and Mrs. A. S. THE GLENDALE

"Love in the Dark," the new Metro film featuring Viola Dana, is now showing at the Glendale Theatre.

It is a thrilling, dramatic photoplay and the star is as sparkling and entertaining as ever. All the elements which go to make a thoroughly entertaining film are in this picture.

Miss Dana appears as an orphan, adopted by a woman who is one of a band of thieves. She compels her husband, who is blind during the day but whose sight returns at night, to help her in her robberies.

Into this atmosphere is Mary (Viola Dana) injected. Anyone with imagination can foresee the possibilities.

Harry Beaumont directed the picture, which was adapted from a story by John Moroso.

In announcing these increases in personnel, Dean Thomas G. Burt says: "Applications for admission to the freshman class are now breaking all records. To meet this additional enrollment without lowering the standards of instruction, we find it necessary to increase our teaching staff."

Among the new instructors secured for the coming year are Prof. George M. Day, Prof. S. L. Crawley, Prof. Paul O. Hardy and Miss Caroline Hodgdon.

Professor Day is a graduate of Hamilton College, with degrees of A.B and A.M. He is also a graduate of Halle and Marburg University, Germany, and has been for several years secretary of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. He is an authority on the Orient and will serve as a member of the department of economics.

Professor Crawley is a graduate of the University of Indiana, with an A. M. degree from Columbia, and has been engaged for the department of psychology, where he is expected to introduce several new courses.

Professor Hardy is a graduate of Pomona College, with the degree of A.B., and with the degree of A.M. from Yale. He has been engaged to replace Dr. R. G. Cleland, now on leave of absence for one year.

Miss Hodgdon is a graduate of Wellesley and has taken graduate work at Harvard Medical College and at Columbia. She will have charge of the department of physical education, for women.

THREE COLLIES SECURE PRIZES

D. J. Warnick's Dogs Get Ribbons at L. A. Kennel Club Exhibition

Three ribbons were won by D. J. Warnick of Tujunga for his three entries in the dog show at the Ambassador hotel last Saturday, held by the Los Angeles Kennel Club under the auspices of the National Kennel Club. His three collies were entered in five classes; Trixie Girl the Third winning first prize in the veterans' class and Warnick's Pride winning second and third prizes in two novice classes. Budd Boy, the other entry, did not take a ribbon.

The competition was keen, there being twenty-three collies entered this year. The total number of dogs entered was 493 and many of them are famed for their work on the screen and others are highly pedigreed pets of prominent motion picture stars.

Sunday was Children's Day at the Tujunga Community church and the entire Sunday school hour was given over to the program. Each year on Children's Day they are promoted from their grades to the next higher, according to merits.

The church was decorated in red and white with carnations as the principal decoration and canary birds added to the brightness of the effect. The program was made up of songs and recitations by the children. The church was packed and everyone enjoyed the music.

Two Claimants for U. of C. Regent Post

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—The board of regents of the University of California, meeting last Tuesday to consider reorganization plans of the university's new president, Dr. W. W. Campbell, found itself faced with the problem of two claimants for one position on the board.

Dr. John R. Haynes of Los Angeles, appointed by Governor Stephens, expected to fight for his place, while P. E. Bowles of Oakland, appointed by Governor Richardson to succeed Haynes, was also expected to claim the office.

It is probable the supreme court will be called upon to settle the tangle. Governor Richardson took the stand that Haynes was not a regent because his appointment was never confirmed by the senate.

While the American housewife has been struggling tearfully to make her weekly budget produce an adequate breakfast, dinner and supper, the quartermaster corps has succeeded in bringing the army ration allowance down to a figure actually lower than pre-war days, it was learned today.

While the housewife has been paying from forty to 100 per cent more for meats, bread and vegetables than she did in 1913, the army is able to set a whole day's table for 3.6 cents more than in 1913.

'White Knights' Adding To Membership, Claim

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—A new and thorough investigation of the activities of the "White Knights," who kidnaped and flogged Frank Sanceri after accusing him of attacking Astrea Jolley, 14, was launched by the police as a result of evidence that the organization is being extended and its membership growing.

During the last few days the "White Knights," apparently encouraged by the failure of authorities to round up the members of the gang which beat Sanceri, have shown signs of resuming their terrorism campaign, it is claimed.

Miss Sims admitted, the police said, that she had accidentally shot herself. Her father also told police he had found the revolver from which the shot was fired hidden in a chair at their home.

NEW RECORD SET

WASHINGTON, June 13.—More than 1,000,000 freight cars were loaded and moved during the last week in May. A new record for this season of the year was set.

An inner tube given with each Western Giant Cord,

You save $5 to $20 on each tire—in addition to the price of the tube—and get as good a tire as you can buy!

This unusual offer is made so that you may test the Western Giant Cord on your own car. We want you to TRY ONE and experience for yourself the reasons why this tire is gaining faster in popularity in the West than any other tire; why 55 carloads were shipped to our 70 stores in the last four months; why so many motorists now use them all around.

Check up on the mileage; note how long the high, square, massive tread retains its non-skid qualities—long after ordinary tires are worn down smooth. Enjoy the greater comfort made possible by the even balance and easy riding features. The minimum mileage guarantee of 12,000 miles given and backed by Western Auto Supply Company is your assurance of dependable, satisfactory service.

"As good as you can buy" is a fitting slogan for this tire. It describes briefly and fully the quality of Western Giant Cord.

Our prices are from $5 to $20 lower (according to size) only because of "Western Auto's" buying power and method of merchandising through many stores.

Come in and see these tires. Go over the advantages point by point. Consider the reputation of the house that recommends them. Put one on your car and let it roll alongside of any other make of tire, and let the one which proves by actual performance its superiority, be your future choice.

Remember, this tube offer is for a limited time only and applies only to the Western Giant and Western Standard Cords. We reserve the right to withdraw it without further notice.

Dempsey Is Snapped In Training

The heavyweight champ sparring with George Godfrey and an idea of the powerful arms and great reach of the champ

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Just how much Jacques Dempsey has slipped in the two years he has been idle since that memorable battle with Georges Carpentier, and in the four years since he won the heavyweight crown, will not be known until he faces Tom Gibbons Independence Day in the Shelby, Mont., ring. But the first impression one gets of him as he starts training in his camp at Great Falls, Mont., for the bout is that he does not have to fight that one great bugaboo of veterans in any class—weight.

The big majority of fighters take on weight when idle. This is more true of champions than of lesser lights, because of the luxuries afforded them and the length of time between important bouts.

Dempsey, the latest glimpses of him at Great Falls show, has not taken on pounds upon pounds of flabby flesh. He seems to need only to harden his well-kept muscles and tune up his wind and hitting.

This means much to Dempsey. Surplus flesh reduces speed. Against Willard speed was not of prime importance. Terrific hitting power was the prime requisite. Against Gibbons Dempsey will need every iota of speed. Whatever shortcoming Gibbons may have lack of speed and cleverness isn't one of them.

That Dempsey appreciates this is indicated by the fact that he is devoting more time than usual to roadwork and shadow boxing.

He is alive to the fact that Gibbons cannot be taken lightly and is acting accordingly. Which bodes well for the champ.

SPORTS CHATTER
By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Dempsey takes a real layoff, says a sports page heading. Why not?

Jess Willard says he isn't satisfied yet with the way he is fighting. Probably began to suspect something along about July during a sojourn in Toledo, Ohio.

In the last year or two we have seen very little in the sports pages by eastern critics figuring on the meets of far western track and field athletes as compared to those of the east. Wonder why. Time was when it was their favorite sport.

Thus far we have been unable to find anybody who feels the least worry as to the ultimate result of the Davis tennis cup series—referring, of course, to Americans.

The chances are that Bill Johnston's tennis trip to the European championships will do him a lot of good. Bill is notorious as a slow starter and what he is getting now will probably be just what he needs by the time the serious work begins.

Molla Mallory's early season tennis was quite inferior, but she seems to be getting back her stride again. There can be no doubt that her illness last winter seriously affected her and she is only now recovering. You can get sick in an hour, but the road to recovery is a long one, relatively.

Willie Ritchie made his first appearance in a ring near San Francisco since he announced that he would try to "come back" against Leonard. Those who saw him state that there was little appreciable difference in the appearance of the former lightweight champion, both as to his physical appearance and his action. He boxed a four-round exhibition. His wind appeared in excellent shape and there was no appearance of any excess baggage in the way of adipose tissue. He appeared strong and seemed to recuperate quickly between rounds. All in all, those who are interested in his effort to return to the ring seem to think that he has some reason for believing that he still is a contender.

By sending Outfielder Turner Barber to the Atlanta club of the Southern league, which is managed by Otto Miller, the Brooklyn Dodgers help the backstop who served them so faithfully for thirteen years. Barber is a good ball player and he will probably help Manager Miller keep the Atlanta club in the race for the pennant. So far this year Miller has been very successful. The Atlanta team was a tail-end club last season, but this year it is winning half of its games and is only a few games out of first place.

Boston fans are more interested in the Cubs this season than ever before, chiefly because five of the Chicago players hail from the town of the beanpot.

The players are Leo Hartnett, Johnny Kelleher, Arnold Statz, Marty Callaghan and Barney Friberg.

You don't need a good record to get a match with a champion these days. Consider Eugene Criqui's case. Pal Moore knocked out Criqui in fourteen rounds. Danny Frush defeated Moore in a twelve-round battle. Kilbane knocked out Frush in seven rounds. But Criqui and not Frush or Moore got the big-money match with the feather king.

Everett Scott having passed the record in the major leagues for straight games played in, is now going after the minor record, held by Perry Lipe, veteran of the bushes, who is credited with having played in 1,126 games without missing.

Lipe began his record on September 16, 1902, and ended it on August 26, 1911. He might have kept going, but illness in his family kept him away from his club for a period.

Tom Nicoll, a veteran golf professional of this country, recently returned from a three-year trip to the Orient, where he laid out a number of golf courses and taught hundreds of Japanese and Filipinos, and a few Chinese, how to play. He keeps in frequent correspondence with his former pupils, and, according to accounts received, Tom says the game is growing by leaps and bounds there. A new course near Tokio will shortly be opened, and the fact that the Prince of Wales played a match—the result never being disclosed—with the Crown Prince of Japan also stimulated interest in the game there. Nicoll believes it is only a matter of a short time before some of the best professionals here will be induced to go to Japan because of lucrative offers.

"Dutch" Leonard, former southpaw pitcher for Detroit, is now the manager of the Fresno, Calif., independent club.

Leonard succeeded Walter Boles when the latter quit, following a "run in" with "Dutch."

The ex-Tiger has been pitching for Fresno since he quit organized baseball.

Hundreds of hotels are being built in Shelby, Mont., to accommodate the crowds who will come for the Dempsey-Gibbons bout. Big dry goods boxes are therefore in big demand and grocers and other tradesmen are holding out for big prices on their empty ones to prospective hotelkeepers.

Shelbyites are likely to be disappointed if they think that they will garner much of a harvest from the visitors. In order to bring folks for a few days' sojourn there must be something in the way of an attraction. Reno had little and Shelby has nothing in the way of theatres and so on.

Under the circumstances those who go to see the battle are likely to arrive as near as possible before it starts and leave immediately when it is over. About one good day's business will be what natives will get out of the visitors. Those who will have to remain for any length of time will include the followers of the training camps and the newspaper men.

There are few places in connection with a fight that have less by way of attractions to the poor sport writer who has to stick on the job than Shelby. Carson was bad enough. Goldfield was in the throes of a boom and there was a lot going on such as keeps a frontier town in action. There is nothing of the sort at Shelby. Not even a good prospect by way of a fight to record the preliminaries of.

Gibbons says that Dempsey was made for him. That's what Willard said about Dempsey. Corbett made some such allusion to Fitzsimmons. Battling Nelson remarked in similar vein regarding one Ad Wolgast. It's a poor fighter who goes into a battle with the expectation of being beaten. At the same time, thinking that one will win does not necessarily make a victor out of the thinker.

With Babe Ruth in the double figures in the matter of home runs, interest is keen as to whether or not he will gradually overtake the couple of men in the major leagues who still have more four-point clouts to their credit than the Babe. Two in one day helps a lot, but those starts come only few and far between. At least there is a revival of interest in what the Bambino is doing.

MONTROSE

STORE IS MOVED TO NEW LOCATION

Modern Market Equipped to Supply All Needs of Community

Montrose now boasts another and one of the best equipped stores in the business of supplying groceries, vegetables and meats, in the new block just opened by C. J. Reinhart across the street from his temporary location on Honolulu Avenue. The move has been completed and the store is doing business in the new quarters.

There is an up-to-date meat department, carrying all the best meats and by-products, a department devoted to vegetables and one carrying a full line of fancy and staple groceries.

George Charbonneau is rushing work on his 'Blue Bird Cafe' on Honolulu avenue in order to open on the date set, June 16. The cafe is located in the Bellanger block at the corner of Montrose and Honolulu avenues and will be equipped with every convenience for serving the patrons already familiar with the quality of Mr. Charbonneau's cuisine from the service they had at the old location, and the new ones who will find this a convenient and pleasant place to assuage their hunger.

Will Seat Fifty

The five booths are placed and the long counter and chairs are in readiness. The floor is receiving several coats of paint and fixtures and cupboards will be in place for the opening. This will be one of the best appointed cafes in the district and will cater to large parties. The seating capacity will be for fifty people.

It is planned to give a free street dance with music by Kelley's Shrine Club orchestra of Glendale. A special chicken dinner will be served on the opening evening, for which many reservations have already been made.

Railroad Merger Is Blow to Sherman Act

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The Sherman anti-trust law, which for twenty years has been the bogey of "big business," has been dealt a staggering blow by the decision of the United States court of appeals, sitting in St. Paul, permitting the consolidation of the Southern and Central Pacific railroads, government officials admitted. There was evidence in Washington of much confusion as to just how far the court's decision goes in nullifying the famous statute.

The ultimate effect, according to the consensus of opinion in legal circles, will be that the government will have to appeal to the United States supreme court to decide what is the supreme law of the land—the Sherman law or the transportation act of 1920.

It is the opinion of no less a legal authority than James M. Beck, solicitor-general of the government, that the transportation act of 1920 nullifies the most important provisions of the Sherman law, as it affects railroads.

they will total $9,216. This sum includes the purchase of new fire hose.

Other Departments

The city engineer's department is mentioned in the budget to the extent of $653. This sum includes $400 for the purchase of a new transit, $35 for two new levels and $200 for office and field equipment.

A new roadster is included in the budget by the special request of the building department. This will cost $450 and will be used on inspections.

Advertising and promotion expenditures this year will amount to about $3,000. This same sum is being appropriated for next year.

The collection of rubbish and garbage this year cost $13,642. It is estimated that this service will cost $4,358 more next year, or about $18,000.

The purchase of a street-sweeper is contemplated by the City Council. This action, it is believed, will reduce the cost of street cleaning from $13,356 to $7,730 or $5,626.

Building Permits

Revenue from building permits this year will amount to about $26,500. This is estimated in the budget for next year at $25,000.

"It is better not to calculate to full capacity," stated Mr. Saulsberry. "It is better to be a little conservative. If we overestimate the revenue and underestimate expenses at the end of the year, we would have a deficit."

The dog population is steadily decreasing, in the opinion of the City Council. Therefore, at the same license fee of $2 per canine, it is estimated that the revenue from this source will decrease from $1,900 to $1,200, or $700.

The revenue from business licenses will amount to $11,500 this year. It is calculated that it will be about the same next year.

Seek Accomplices in Tiger Woman Escape

LOS ANGELES, June 13.—Two former county employes and three mysterious Americans alleged to have aided Clara Phillips, "hammer murderess," to escape from the county jail here, were being sought by the sheriff's office in a new effort to uncover the details surrounding Mrs. Phillips' getaway and her flight to Honduras where she was re-captured. When certain unexplained angles of the "tiger woman's" escape are cleared, Under-Sheriff Gene Biscailuz will go to San Quentin prison and urge Mrs. Phillips to tell the whole truth of her escape plot.

Dude Bandits Secure Jewelry and Money

CHICAGO, June 13.—Fra Diavolo and other Italian brigands wore velvet and silks. In China the bandits wear carbines and queques. But in Chicago those up to date on matters of dress wear professional glasses, natty straw hats and box cut top coats.

Three of these stylish highwaymen early Tuesday held up David Palnitski, his wife, and John Conaty, politely lined them up against a wall and stole jewelry valued at $7800 and $85 in cash.

A few more prosperous "jobs" like that, police predicted, and the trio will be wearing top hats and morning coats.

LOCAL GIRL, AGE 16, IS MISSING

went to 920 South Grand avenue, where the dancing pavilion is located. There they danced until shortly after 11 o'clock, when James noticed that his sister was missing.

Reports to Parents

When a thorough search failed to find her, and when the clock moved on to midnight and the dance hall closed, the brother became thoroughly alarmed and made fruther efforts to locate the girl, reporting the case to the management.

He then came sorrowfully home and poured out the tale to his parents, who had returned to Glendale earlier in the evening. The father thereupon immediately notified the police, and went in to the city with his son, where an all-night search was made, without result.

James told his mother that he had seen Mary dancing more than once with a tall, blonde-haired boy. He also told her that he had seen his sister talking with three dark-haired girls of about her own age.

It is hoped by the family and friends that Mary will be recognized and her whereabouts reported. They feel that among those at the dance last night there should be some who could shed light on the mysterious disappearance.

Here from Montana

The Byrds came to Glendale last September, from Montana, where they were ranchers. They had planned to locate in this city permanently, but all their plans have been unsettled by the sudden whisking away of their daughter.

And that is all—except that somewhere in Los Angeles, somewhere in southern California at least, Mary Byrd, aged 16, is hidden, snatched away right before her loving brother's eyes, to be carried no one knows where, or why—while at 337 West Harvard street a little white bungalow is eagerly waiting to welcome her back, as are a mother and father, brothers and little sister.

War Hero May Die By Hangman's Rope

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—"Well, I guess all my patriotism wins me is a hangman's noose" nonchalantly remarked Sidney Murrell, twenty-three year-old boy hero of the world war who possesses six medals for heroism, as he awaited extradition papers to London, Ontario, at the local jail.

He is wanted in Ontario on a charge of murder growing out of the $38,000 robbery of the Home Bank of Canada, during which an officer was killed, a bandit fatally wounded and two policemen wounded.

"I'll probably hang if they take me back to Canada," Murrell said. "I learned my hard boiled stuff in the army. We got kinda' careless about shooting there. I got the habit, I guess."

Veteran Trout Snaps Line; Makes Escape

ELKO, Nev., June 13.—"Old Grizzly," king of the South Fork river trout, is still at liberty after feeling the smart of a barbed hook for the first time in his wary career.

The old trout, the "granddaddy of 'em all," is famous in the annals of Elko fishermen. Five seasons of persistent angling on the part of local nimrods were rewarded when the "Old Grizzly" took the lure of Press Talbot.

Twenty minutes of fighting and the old trout retreated to his hole beneath the rocks with twelve feet of line and a No. 6 hook in his mouth.

Barbers Threaten to Strike in Portland

PORTLAND, Ore., June 13.—Bewhiskered spectators and long-haired citizens may add a touch of realism this week to the old Oregon trail celebration in connection with the annual rose festival, depending on whether union barbers go on strike here.

Union tonsorial artists are demanding week day closing at 6:30 p. m. and Saturday closing at 8 p. m. In addition they ask a flat guarantee of $25 a week, with sixty per cent of all earnings over $35 weekly instead of sixty per cent of earnings over $37.

French Embassy Makes Protest on Dry Rule

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Difficulties with foreign governments over the application of the new liquor regulations to foreign ships were not long in making their appearance here.

Within thirty-six hours after the regulations became effective, representatives of the French embassy lodged renewed protests with the government over the curtailment of wine rations for their crews and accompanied by the protest with an implication of "bad faith" on the part of enforcement authorities.

FRIGHTENED AWAY

Parker F. Wilcoxon of 127 West Garfield avenue notified the police department about 9 o'clock last night that he had just frightened away a man who is believed to have stolen some Mexican coins from his residence.

CLUB HEAD OF MID-WEST HERE

Mrs. John S. Payne Visitor in Glendale; Make Plans For Big Luncheon

the memory of your beautiful courtesy so delightfully bestowed on me.

"I thank you every one, and I promise to be the best 'official mother' that my limitations permit me to be, to you, best of 'club daughters.'"

It was also during the business session that Mrs. Campbell announced that Arthur H. Dibbern, Glendale jeweler, is to present the club with a fine clock for the auditorium.

Club Indorses C. of C.

Yesterday marked the final community sing for the year under the leadership of Hugo Kirchhofer, and Mr. Kirchhofer shared honors with Mrs. H. R. Boyer, accompanist, in the compliments and praises voiced by Mrs. Campbell and applauded by the club company.

R. F. Kitterman, representing the Chamber of Commerce, spoke to the club and hearty indorsement was given the present membership drive.

A feature of the meeting was the report by Mrs. Freeman McG. Kelley, who has served as chairman of programs for the year.

Mrs. Kelley announced that out of a fund of $600 there had been $477 spent for programs, and that after other expenses had been met $106 remained, and of that amount $100 was spent for a motion picture screen for the auditorium and the remaining $6 presented to the Music section to secure a covering for the piano.

The screen, which was used for the first time yesterday, is the finest obtainable, and a duplicate of those used in the larger motion picture theatres. Through the influence of Mrs. R. E. Chase, curator of the Drama section, a $150 screen was secured at the reduced price.

From the birthday offering taken at the meeting Mrs. Montgomery secured $21.13 for the ways and means treasury.

Mrs. Charles H. Buck of the Women's club of Brooklyn, Mass., was also a special guest of the club gathering.

Annual Luncheon Plans

The club members are now anticipating the annual luncheon Tuesday, June 26, when notable guests will be entertained and the club year closed. Mrs. Colin Cable, hospitality chairman, is in charge of the affair and is receiving reservations. It was announced that reservations for club members are to close at 11 o'clock, Thursday, June 22.

A delightful entertainment program was given following the meeting yesterday, by Miss Florence Kilpatrick, talented Glendale soprano, and Mrs. Henry Van Dyke, artist and decorator of Pasadena.

Miss Kilpatrick sang most beautifully "A Spray of Roses" (Boles), and as an encore a southern melody. She was accompanied by her teacher, Mrs. Grant.

Finally Mrs. Van Dyke was presented and her greeting to the club was informal and of unusual interest. At the recent district convention at San Luis Obispo she accidentally met the Glendale representatives, when she inquired the way to the Civic Auditorium. From this chance meeting they were closely associated during the convention and it was then that Mrs. Van Dyke expressed a desire to speak to the Tuesday Afternoon club.

Cultured and possessed of stunning appearance and pleasing presence, Mrs. Van Dyke is indeed a fascinating speaker, and her informal talk yesterday on interiors and gardens was both instructive and entertaining.

She emphasized individuality in house and garden planning and her observations, experiences and reminiscences were illustrated with a collection of colored slides.

U. S. Agents to Probe Supervisors' Junket

SAN FRANCISCO, June 13.—A federal investigation of published charges that liquor flowed freely on an inspection trip of the Hetch-Hetchy water project of the city of San Francisco, made recently by members of the board of supervisors, was probed today as a result of Prohibition Director Rutter taking cognizance of the charges. He assigned agents to make an inquiry.

Man Sought as Dead Asks to Be Arrested

CHICAGO, June 13.—Warren J. Lincoln of Aurora, Ill., for whose body quarries, culverts and woods were searched on the assumption he had been murdered, was arrested Tuesday in a Chicago hotel at his own request. He said, according to police, he had been slugged and beaten by his wife and three men, after which he fled to New York.

Body of Missing Man Discovered in Ditch

OMAHA, June 13.—The body of Rufus A. Brown, sixty-five, prominent Omaha insurance man, who had ben missing since June 5, was found in a ditch at the outskirts of the city late Tuesday in a group of bushes. His body showed no marks of violence.

The pantograph, a device used for enlarging or reduction of pictures, was invented in 1650.

Warren Sets Record For East Colorado

A new record for East Colorado boulevard property in Glendale has been set by the Warren agency at 300½ South Brand boulevard. Twenty thousand dollars is the reported price for 143 feet frontage between Adams street and Verdugo road. Mr. Warren also reports selling three lots and house already this month.

Suicides in the United States last year totaled 12,000.

Railroad stocks maintained a steady front, under the influence of persistent demand for New York Central, which was taken in big volume around 103 3-4, a net gain of 3 3-4 points.

Government bonds unchanged; railway and other bonds were steady.

Stock sales: 1,155,300 shares; bonds, $10,745,000.

In Grain Markets

CHICAGO, June 13.—Most of the grain futures were a shade higher in the market today, following a faint indication of strength at the opening.

The market continued strong in the afternoon and at the close wheat was 1/8 to 7/8c higher.

Corn finished ½ to 5/8c higher. Oats were unchanged to ½c off.

Trading in provisions was dull and price changes unimportant.

Shanghai has more than 20,000 foreigners and nearly all of them play golf.

CLUB'S OFFICIALS LUNCHEON GUESTS

New Curator of Literary Section Honored on Assuming Post

Hurrah for President Campbell,
She's here to join the gambol;
With her the Vice you see,
Hurah for Vice Montgomery,
We're proud as we can be
To have these guests of the Literary.

Such was the clever greeting Mrs. Daniel Campbell and Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, president and vice president of the Tuesday Afternoon club, received yesterday noon at the Harriett Mae tea room where they were honored guests at the annual luncheon of the Literary Section of the club.

Coming from a morning meeting at the Public Library, where they had unanimously chosen Mrs. H. C. Wilcox to succeed Mrs. J. E. Sargent as curator, it was a gay company that gathered about the long luncheon table, bright with a basket of coreopsis, brilliant colored china and the tiny cards bearing hand-painted floral sketches.

Mrs. Frank C. Ayars was chairman of the luncheon and she was ably assisted by Mesdames Edwin Cleophas and G. A. Gallagher. Mrs. Gallagher also served as chairman of the informal program, and to her and her assistants, Mesdames Helen Sawyer and H. C. Wilcox, belong much praise for the clever songs and yells that livened the luncheon hour.

Welcomes Director

It was Mrs. J. E. Sargent, retiring curator, who presided over the informal program, introducing first Mrs. Daniel Campbell, who in her own delightful manner expressed sincere appreciation for the accomplishments of the Literary Section as a club unit, and the pleasure of the official board on receiving Mrs. Sargent as one of the new directors. In closing she presented Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Wilcox, the curator elect, with cards bearing most fitting sentiments.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, the other guest of honor, was also presented, and responded most pleasingly.

Clever toasts were then given by Mrs. H. S. Garlinghouse and Mrs. Wilcox and in conclusion Mrs. Wilcox paid a beautiful tribute to Mrs. Sargent and presented her with a basket of flowers in expression of the love of the section members.

The songs and yells were introduced during the luncheon hour, at the close of which the company went to the clubhouse for the regular meeting of the club.

Members Present

Those seated at the luncheon table were Mesdames Daniel Campbell, A. H. Montgomery, J. E. Sargent, F. L. Hollingsworth, C. J. Higgins, Frank C. Ayars, Edgar Leavitt, J. C. Wernette, E. W. W. Hayward, G. H. Rowe, Helen Sawyer, Frankie Webb, Adamson, H. S. Garlinghouse, F. S. Balthis, A. P. McBoyle, H. C. Wilcox, Edwin Cleophas.

YOUNG BRIDES

Girls who married when 16 years old totaled 41,620, those at 17 numbered 90,930, while the 18-year-old brides were 186,645 strong in one year alone in this country.

Two Collisions of Autos Reported to Local Authorities

Two collisions were reported yesterday to the police department.

Clarence R. Patterson, of 452 Stocker street, was driving west on Glenwood road about 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Near the intersection of Grand View road he saw a truck being driven by R. A. Jones of Rural Route No. 3, coming north. He stopped.

"Mr. Jones turned the corner," he remarked, "and drove into my car, breaking bumper, radiator, headlight, left fender and apron."

The other collision occurred at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It involved Joseph N. Brandt, of 904 East Elk street, and Mrs. Marian Morran, of 528 Burchett street.

"I was turning the corner of Pacific avenue on Burchett street," reported Mr. Brandt, "when this car cut across to the right."

WORLD PREMIERE FOR FILM FANS

Palmer Photoplay Company Feature Drama on Screen At Glendale Theatre

An unusual treat awaits the patrons of the Glendale Theatre Thursday night, June 14, when the world's premiere of a film, upon which the eyes of the entire motion picture profession have been focused for months, will be given. That film is the Palmer Photoplay Corporation's big feature drama, "Judgment of the Storm," which is to prove or to disprove the value of screen plays written expressly for motion pictures, as photoplay material.

That is the question upon which the big producers of the country are putting much thought, and the Glendale audience will help decide it before audiences in the big theatres of New York, Chicago or Los Angeles get a chance to see the picture—for which the program issued that night there is a voting blank and the request that patrons give short, constructive criticisms of the picture.

Twenty-three Prizes

The Palmer Corporation attaches much value to these opinions, and for that reason $50 in prizes will be offered for the best reviews. Twenty-three prizes will be given. Full details are to be found in this week's issue of the Glendale Theatre program. Lloyd Hughes, Lucille Ricksen, George Hackathorn, Myrtle Stedman and several other well-known stars are featured in the production. The regular offering on that evening will be Viola Dana in "Love in the Dark."

Local Banks Selling Monroe Half Dollars

Monroe Centennial half dollars, issued by the United States mint as souvenirs of the Motion Picture Industrial Exposition in Los Angeles this summer, are now on display in the local banks. They are being sold for one dollar each, the 50 cents premium going to worthy charity, it is stated. Only 100,000 of these coins are being issued and they are the first to bear the name of a city, that of Los Angeles, on their face.

PRODUCING DIAMONDS

An average of one-sixth of the diamonds bought in the United States were bought in the raw state and cut here.

Inside Information About Glendale Police Department On Duty 24 Hours Each Day

By GIL A. COWAN

POLICE! You hear that cry occasionally in the dead of night and a certain thrill results from the assurance of safety you have when you know that the stolid officers of the law are somewhere near. In view of the hue and cry set up by certain interests in Los Angeles regarding police conditions, it is only natural that Glendale people should be given a little inside information as to what their department is doing.

It seems to be fate that we folks are known for our bad deeds as we live and cherished for the better things after death. Few praises are sung to us on earth and perhaps it is for the best. And the policeman, with the rest, goes unheralded and unsung unless something spectacular shoves him into the limelight.

What They Do

Without giving you statistical detail of the Glendale police department, let us browse around a bit and learn something of the work to be done by Colonel John D. Fraser and his force. In the first place, they are the custodians of the peace; they direct the traffic and look imposing to the small boy; some of the members use motorcycles and police cars to safeguard the streets by arresting speeders, notifying others that lights on their machine are out, or otherwise aiding everybody in general and penalizing the few.

Then come those who answer the telephones—desk sergeants, they are called—and they try hard to keep everybody satisfied. They are the ones who learn of a dead cat first, although such information should be given the sanitary department; they dispatch officers in case of trouble and keep in active liaison with the force on duty.

Detective Bureau

But the most interesting department of police work, also the most tiresome, is the detective bureau. In the larger cities it is a great organization of men graduated from the ranks, although the University of California today is making criminology one of its most alluring courses.

There is no need of being intimate in our discussion of detective work here, for it is but a part of protecting the populace from crooks. The officers selected for the plainclothes squad are used principally in investigative work, the ramifications of which may be read in any and all detective stories. The fact that they are efficient in Glendale is enough said.

Some one is reported missing, a crime is revealed as having occurred some days prior, suspicious characters are found lurking about the streets at unseemly hours—all such subjects mean work for the men whom you and I do not know, but we know are here. They start with meager clews and, working from various angles, report results to the chief.

It doesn't take many hours for the concentrated forces of the department to arrive at some definite conclusions. You will see two uniformed officers and a detective drive away from the city hall, to return in a few minutes, perhaps, with a prisoner. The public seldom hears of these arrests until the prosecuting attorney issues a complaint.

As many as six or seven suspicious characters are arrested in a day here. They are taken before the chief, usually, for interrogation. They are finger-printed, in many instances, and the measurements telegraphed to Sacramento or Leavenworth, where, on more than one occasion, word returns that they are "wanted."

Realize Their Duty

The fact that the Glendale police department, to the man, are alive to their duty and striving to keep this a clean city, kept clean, makes it interesting to recount that little of the criminal element settles here. There are no breeding places for crime, and the watchful eyes of the officers quickly discern the undesirable "strangers in our midst."

Whole books could be written of police work here and elsewhere, yet it would be futile to tell of all of the good deeds done. The anxious parent, whose tots have toddled away; the victim of an accident; the person who has lost a pocketbook, or had a car stolen—all owe their gratitude, which is grudgingly reflected in the annual budget, for services rendered with a smile.

For good policemen nowadays smile at life as it is; it couldn't be otherwise in a human city like Glendale.

PUPILS PRESENT PIANO PROGRAM

Music Department of Glendale High School Gives Pleasing Recital

In rounding out the year's work piano pupils in the music department at the Glendale High school presented a recital program this afternoon in the music room at the school. They appeared before a company of parents and friends, who heartily applauded the various numbers and highly praised the work of Miss Bula Zeigler, piano instructor, and Mrs. Dora L. Gibson, head of the music department.

The program represented the study of the past few months and afforded parents and patrons excellent opportunity judging of the ability and work of the individual pupils.

Included in the program were: "Minuet" (Mozart), by Spencer Jewell; "Farewell to the Piano" (Beethoven), by Mary Mullen; duet, "Mazurka" (Theodora Dutton), by Clarissa Dinsmore and Ruth Dana; "Around the Hills" (Mabel Case), by Lincoln Bailey; "Hovering Butterflies" (Jessie Gaynor), by Ruth Marcus; duet, "Alla Marcia" (Biederman), by Ella Mae Straight and Janice Fletcher.

GIVEN DIPLOMAS BY TWO SCHOOLS

Student Completes Courses In High School and Law Studies

PASADENA, June 13.—Entrance to a university upon receipt of a preparatory school diploma is the usual course of the average school student seeking a higher education, but it remained for Joseph Lincoln Logsdon, Jr., of Pasadena to put the cart before the horse and graduate from a law school almost as soon as he receives the coveted honor at the Pasadena commencement exercises in the Tournament of Roses Stadium Friday of this week.

Mr. Logsdon is a senior student at the law school of the University of Southern California, and he is also a senior at the Pasadena High School. He has only a half year to go before the law school graduation.

Takes Law Course

This morning the Pasadenan explained the unusual circumstances which turned his method of education around the other way. When a senior at the local high school in 1917, he enlisted for Camp Hancock, Georgia, thence to France, where he spent most of his time confined in a hospital as the result of being exposed thirteen days in continuous rain.

On his return to Pasadena he was awarded by the government the means of a higher education. This was in 1919. He chose a liberal arts course at U. S. C. Last year at his own request he was transferred to the law school. So, in order to be equipped with a high school diploma, he returned to the senior class here and will be numbered among the 450 graduates. Mr. Logsdon has been in school most of the time during the past year. When he finished his classes at the high school, he showed up daily for the classes at the law school, his classes there meeting at night.

Popular Postal Clerk Weds Southern Girl

The marriage of Louis H. Drury, a clerk in the Glendale postoffice, and Miss Marie Willingham, of Memphis, Tenn., was performed on Saturday, June 9, 1923, at St. Paul's Pro-Cathedral in Los Angeles by Dean McCormick.

Mr. Drury had purchased a handsome bungalow at 1166 Rosedale avenue in contemplation of his marriage, and he and his bride have started keeping house in their new home.

Many of the odor-giving elements in flowers can be reproduced artificially.

MRS. TOLL TELLS OF CLUB WORK

President of L. A. District Convention, Home From East, Gives Views

Glendale club women are watching with interest the activities of Mrs. Charles H. Toll, member of the Tuesday Afternoon club and president of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Toll returned recently from the east, where she spoke at the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' convention and the mid-biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Since her arrival home she has been in great demand as honored guest and speaker at club gatherings in all parts of the Los Angeles district.

She spoke recently before a club gathering in Los Angeles, where she voiced the probability of a woman entering the United States senate. She said:

Woman For Senate

"There is very significant discussion of a woman for the U. S. Senate and in all probability from what I learned while I was in the east, Minnesota will have as its candidate for that office Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"Mrs. Winter is a wonderful woman and she would fill to the satisfaction of the world at large any position to which she would be elected. This leader of 3,000,000 club women of this country is to be our guest next year, when that great body of women will meet in Los Angeles, and we shall have a chance to become better acquainted with the great minds now dominating the club realm.

"I am very much in favor of federation and of leadership. I feel that the women of the general federation will prove the great factor in world crises, in steadying things in times of trouble and in maintaining that high standard of citizenship upon which the United States was founded.

Against Club Politics

"Club politics is frowned upon in the general federation. Partisan politics I refer to. But the federation does advocate legislation and urges women to vote for such legislation measures as may improve the status of women as well as the country itself."

Mrs. Toll called attention of the women to the forthcoming biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs, which will be in Los Angeles next June, and urged the women to plan full club programs. She also urged them to begin at once to prepare for the big event and to bear in mind that too much entertainment is fatal to convention progress.

New Immigrant Chief Is Named by Harding

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Henry Harrihan of New York City was appointed yesterday by President Harding to succeed Robert E. Todd as commissioner of immigration at Ellis Island. The appointment is effective June 30.

BENEFIT BRINGS $383.25 TO CLUB

Talented Local Violinist Is Helped in Plan to Study Music

With Miss Hazel Linkogel, young Glendale violinist, on her way to Chicago to compete for a scholarship with Leopold Auer, the members of the Glendale Music club are expressing sincere appreciation to the artists and Glendale friends for their interest and support in the success of the first scholarship fund benefit. The affair was given at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, with Miss Linkogel as the first beneficiary of the club.

A report from Mrs. Warren Roberts, treasurer of the Music club, shows that $383.25 was received by donations and sale of tickets for the benefit. Of this amount $284.81 was loaned to Miss Linkogel, and $75 was required for the rental of the clubhouse auditorium, and $23.44 for printing and cartage.

In issuing announcement of appreciation for co-operation in the benefit, the Music club officers and members thank Charles Wakefield Cadman, Margaret Messer Morris and Carl Gantvoort, feature artists, who appeared on the program.

BAIRD'S TEAM IN LEAD ON POINTS

First Day of Campaign Adds Sixty-one Members To Glendale C. C.

The first day's work in the Glendale Chamber of Commerce expansion campaign ended at noon yesterday with Major A. L. Baird's division in the lead by 1,533 points to the 1,164 piled up by Major Ed N. Radke's division, although the latter scored the highest team total when W. B. Howard's team piled up 466¼ points with ten new members. Captain J. C. Smith of the Blue division, the Baird contingent, came second with 252½ points and five new members, while Captain Arthur Campbell of the Red, or Radke, division came third with 243 points and six new members. The Smith team turned in more money than did the Campbell team, thus running up the points awarded on the day's work.

Sixty-one new members were added to the rolls by the morning's work, which is considered excellent, as the teams were compelled to spend a good part of the working period in getting acquainted with the details and the methods of procedure before they started out, thus reducing the actual working time to little more than an hour.

Songs and Cheers

At the luncheon that was held in the Citizens' building the various captains reported on the progress of the drive, and the enthusiasm incident to the work was heightened by the songs that were sung, the cheers that were given every man or team that showed any results at all, and the wager of a box of cigars each day of the drive that was proposed by Major A. L. Baird and eagerly accepted by Major Radke's division.

During the luncheon Manager S. C. Singer of the Southern California Gas Company invited the representatives of the Chamber of Commerce to use the lobby of the company's new building on North Maryland as a place wherein to solicit subscriptions, and his offer was eagerly accepted.

The entire working force that is scheduled to take part in the campaign was not on duty yesterday, but the captains have given the assurance that they will have every man possible on deck today to push the drive through to a successful conclusion and to recruit every possible member for the organization.

Occupy New Offices In Lawson Building

Dr. G. Kaemmerling, city health officer, and Dr. L. Y. Wood, dentist, today are moving into the Lawson block, corner of Brand boulevard and Wilson avenue, where they will occupy a suite of five rooms on the first floor. They are the first tenants of the modern office building which is fast being completed.

CHICAGO, June 13.—You are about to learn just what causes a great majority of Chicagoans who miss trains to arrive late at the terminals.

It also provides an excellent excuse for office boys, switchboard girls, stenographers and clerks who fail to arrive at their work on time in the morning.

For example, suppose your train is to leave the La Salle street station at 2 p. m., imagine further that you live 5000 north on the lake shore. A taxicab should get you to the station easily in thirty minutes.

"I've got twenty-nine minutes to catch a train at the La Salle street station," you tell the driver. "Go like—well, pretty fast, will you?"

For answer he slams the door after you, and the cab lurches forward like the well-known bat suddenly released from the infernal regions.

1:32 p. m. Traffic is tied up at the Yukon (that's Wilson avenue, where the gold-diggers dig), but your wriver dexterously wiggles to the front of the waiting mass, and once more you shoot forward when the whistle says "Go!"

1:37 p. m. At Sheffield avenue and Sheridan road one reckless motorist has piled the car of another up in a neat heap in the middle of the street, and traffic is jammed for blocks. It takes five minutes to detour with the aid of frantic policemen.

1:42 p. m. The road is clear now, and the taxicab engineer gets in some rather spectacular driving.

1:45 p. m. The Wrigley Building and Michigan boulevard loom right ahead. Now just to cross the jack-knife bridge over the Chicago River, and——What's this?

1:46 p. m. Suddenly there is a medley of bells and whistles. Policemen appear from nowhere and halt traffic on both sides of the bridge.

1:47 p. m. Crossing arms, painted black and white, are lowered. A heavy belt drops across the approach. Electric bells begin a metallic chant. The tower whistles continue to blow. Blinking red lights set up a flickering that is a test to the nerves. Precaution. Yes, that and plenty else.

1:49 p. m. Ye gods! A steamer wishes to pass. That means the bridge must part in the center and be raised like the blades of a pocket knife.

1:50 p. m. Great wheels groan and arms and pistons squeak as the bridge begins to rise. It moves so slowly that you fear it will be ten minutes before you can move again.

"Turn back," you tell the taxicab driver, "and we'll go over the Dearborn street bridge."

"Not a chance," says he—"looka in back there."

Behind you is a jam of traffic extending for five blocks. He is right. No one could squirm through it. You must wait.

1:51 p. m. With so much bell ringing and whistle blowing you fancy a great whaleback steamer is about to pass. You crane your neck and see nothing. Then, after some delay, a miserable, sooty little tug snorts and puffs, its tiny whistle bellowing "Peep, peep," towing a garbage scow out to the lake. You faint, if you are easily disposed that way. The thing moves ever so slowly.

1:57 p. m. At last it's passed. The bridge comes down. The bells cease their clatter. The whistle is hushed. The crossing arms go up, and the safety belt rises. No more than the way is clear your taxicab shoots forward.

2:01 p. m. You hand the driver a "fiver" and wait for no change, dash to the train platform and pant, just in time to see the 2 p. m. Limited's tail - flags disappearing around a curve.

It's a wonderful contribution to science, is this bridge, but tough on traffic. One day it just had started to rise when an automobile load of thieves being chased by police got to the approach.

Didn't they drive right through the barriers and make the leap-for-life at the apex? And didn't the police do the same thing just as it's done in a circus?

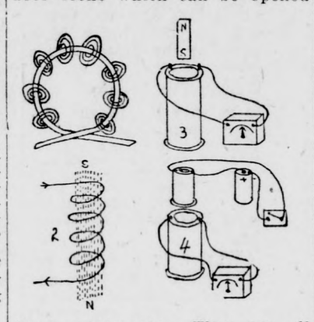

They did.

RADIO

BY FRANK CHAPMAN

A COURSE IN RADIO—Chapter 9

In Figure 1 we have shown the field about a loop of wire carrying current. The more turns we have the more magnetic lines of force. If we have a long piece of wire and wrap it around a broom handle, then take it off and connect the ends to a few cells (battery) we will have a very strong magnetic field, because we have concentrated the line of force. This can be tested with a light piece of iron. To further increase this magnetic effect, we can put a piece of iron in the center of the coil, which is known as a solenoid, the iron would be magnetized and further increase the magnetic strength of the coil. When the iron core was in the solenoid, the latter represented an electromagnet, and when the core was withdrawn we termed it a solenoid. You can no doubt recall many types of electromagnets, such as the door bell operated by a buzzer, annunciators, circuit breakers on automobiles, etc., even on front door locks which can be opened from apartments. They are all electromagnets.

Figure 2 shows a solenoid with direct current flowing through it, giving it a north and south pole, which can be ascertained by bringing a compass near it.

We now know that the strength of a magnetic field produced by a current will depend on the strength of that current. Also, the strength of the magnetic field about a solenoid depends on the number of turns in it. In other words, turns multiplied by amperes give us ampere turns. An example follows: An electromagnet with thirty turns of wire carrying three amperes will have the same strength as one having ninety turns and only carrying one ampere. They both have ninety ampere turns. It is this difference in ampere turns in telephones that makes some telephones better than others for weak signals.

Electro-Magnetic Induction

In a previous lesson I told you how current would be generated in a coil of wire if that coil were moved in a magnetic field. Two experiments that you can make are shown in figures 3 and 4. You will require a small solenoid, small sensitive two-way voltmeter, permanent magnet, another solenoid that will fit in the first one, dry cell and key. In figure 1 is shown a solenoid, voltmeter and magnet. The voltmeter is connected to the solenoid and its scale noted. No deflection of the needle is noticed. Now when we take the magnet and move it up and down in the solenoid we find the voltmeter will register, which proves that a potential has been produced in the coil. If we push the magnet in and leave it there, there will be a deflection when entering the coil, but when allowed to remain there the needle will come to rest, but when withdrawn it will be deflected in the opposite direction. This is similar to the way electric power is generated today. The stronger the magnet the greater the deflection. The faster the magnet is moved the more current will be generated, too. The strength of the current flowing in the solenoid will depend upon the number of lines of force cut by the solenoid per minute.

In figure 4 is shown another experiment, which shows two independent circuits, one containing the key, dry cell and solenoid and the other the solenoid and voltmeter. If we press the key and put the small solenoid within the larger one, a deflection of the voltmeter takes place, and when we withdraw it, it goes to the opposite side. We can also leave the solenoid in the larger one and close and open the key, when the same thing occurs. Or we can move the large coil and get the same effect, but either way we try, there must be a rise and fall of the lines of force before current is produced in the larger solenoid. In other words, work must be performed.

In this experiment with the dry cell direct current was used. If we substituted a source of alternating current for the dry cell, what would happen?

POINTERS

When using radio frequency hookups you will find a non-regenerative circuit less difficult to operate.

If you let your storage battery run low, sulphate forms, which is hard to drive off the plates when charging.

Nickel iron storage cells have a voltage of 1.2, while lead type are two volts.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE FLOWER PITCHER

Uncle Wiggily was sitting in the corner of the porch on his hollow stump bungalow one day, wondering where he could go to have an adventure, when he happened to hear voices talking.

"Go ahead, you ask him," spoke one timid voice.

"Aw, I don't want to—you said you'd ask," spoke a second voice.

"Those are animal children, coming to see me about something," thought Uncle Wiggily with a twinkle of his pink nose. "They don't know I'm out here, as I'm behind a post. I'll ask them what they want. Ho, chick-a-biddies" he cried in his jolly voice "What is it you want to ask me?"

"Oh, how he frightened me!" quacked Lulu Wibble Wobble, the duck girl. "I didn't know he was there."

"Neither did I, bleated Nannie Wagtail, the goat, for it was Lulu and Nannie who had come softly up to the hollow stump bungalow.

"What is it you want?" asked Uncle Wiggily, hopping toward the front steps where Lulu and Nannie could see him.

"We came to ask if you would come to the woods with us and have a little play party," quacked Lulu. "We have our toy dishes and something to eat but we don't want to go to the woods alone."

"Why aren't you at school?" sked the bunny uncle.

"The Lady Mouse Teacher let us out early 'cause we know our lessons." bleated Nannie. "Please come, Uncle Wiggily."

"All right, as long as you don't have to go to school," said Mr. Longears, and soon he was on his way to the woods with the goat and duck girls. They found a place where green grass grew into a soft carpet under the tree. And in the middle of a circle was an old, flat stump.

"That will be fine for the table," quacked Lulu.

"Yes," agred Nannie. "We'll set it with our dishes, put on the things to eat and have a party."

"What do you want me to do?" sked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, you're company — you don't have to work!" laughed Nannie.

So Uncle Wiggily sat down on a mossy log near the flat stump table and watched Nannie and Lulu set out the toy dishes and the things to eat which they had brought to the woods in baskets.

All of a sudden Nannie gave a cry of alarm.

"Don't tell me the Bob Cat is coming!" cried Uncle Wiggily, his pink nose all excited.

"No, it isn't the Bob Cat," sadly spoke Nannie. "But I dropped my little toy milk pitcher and broke it all to pieces on a stone."

"Was the milk in it?" asked Uncle Wiggily anxiously.

"No, I have the milk in a bottle," bleated Nannie, "and I was just going to pour it into the toy pitcher when I broke it. Oh, dear!"

"Never mind," soothed Uncle Wiggily kindly. "I'll get you another pitcher for the play dinner."

"How can you get another pitcher when there isn't any store near here?" quacked Lulu, looking about in the woods.

"I'll pick a leaf from the pitcher plant and that will do very well to hold milk or water, either," answered the bunny. He searched around in the forest until, in a low, swampy place, he found growing some of the pitcher plants. These are real. They have red flowers and the green leaves, growing low near the roots, are shaped just like toy milk pitchers, or vases, and they hold water which rains into them.

"They have no handles on," said Uncle Wiggily, picking some of the pitcher flower leaves, "but we can stand the pitchers up in cracks in the stump and they will do very well."

"Oh, how lovely!" cried Lulu and Nannie. The rain water was emptied from one of the green flower pitchers and milk was poured in. But, just as the party was about to start, out popped the Fuzzy Fox.

"I want cars to nibble!" he howled.

"Please come, Uncle Wiggily"

"First you must wash your face!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. Then, catching up a leaf of the pitcher plant filled with rain water, the bunny dashed the water full in the eyes of the Fox.

"Oh, wowzie! wowzie!" howled the bad chap, coughing and sneezing, and away he ran, nibbling no ears that day. Then Lulu and Nannie had a fine time playing party in the woods with Mr. Longears and they poured into his tea milk from the flower pitcher and it was wonderful.

And if the breakfast orange doesn't squirt some juice in the eye of the needle so it can't see to put the spool of thread in the thimble to sleep, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the brown rope.

BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

The Chums were still lying on deck talking about Panama and the queer looking fish they saw rise to the surface of the water every now and then when they heard a woman scream.

As the cook was the only woman on board they knew it must be she. Again and again the scream rang out above the whistling of the wind in the rigging and the flapping of the sails.

"What can be the matter?" exclaimed Billy. And the three of them jumped up and ran toward the hatchway, from which the frightened screams came. Down the hatchway they stumbled and made straight for the kitchen. When they reached the door, they were petrified with fright, not for themselves, but for the cook, for they saw her in the arms of a huge ape, which was trying to lick her face as he held her in a tight embrace, with her arms pinned close to her sides.

They were swaying and rocking from side to side as the cook vainly tried to free herself. When she saw Billy, she called. "Save me! Save me, Billy! Kill him! Kill him! He is squeezing me to death!"

This was invitation enough for Billy to pitch in and give the ape a fight for his life. The only thing Billy was afraid of was that when the ape saw him trying to get the cook away he might give her an extra big squeeze that would break her ribs, or else that he would bite her.

But as the cook kept on screaming "Kill him! kill him!" Billy decided to take the chance. So he lowered his head and made for the ape's back, as he stood on his hind feet, and the butt struck him squarely in the tender part of his back, making him loosen his hold of the cook instantly. In fact, he opened his arms so quickly that the cook fell out of them on the floor and rolled under the table for protection.

He was a powerful, big brute, and used to beating in any fight he might get into, even though it was a tiger or a leopard with which he fought now and then, so he had no fear of being whipped. His long, strong arms and great teeth had always helped him through.

The ape turned to see what had hit him, and with a growl of rage he made a spring at Billy, who was a kind of animal he had never seen before.

and when he thought he was getting the worst of a fight, he would swing himself up in a tree out of harm's way, and hang by one long arm and bat his enemy over the head with the other. But here there was no tree to swing into, and instead of brute strength, and the quick springs and the sharp teeth of tigers, he had something worse to face. Two long horns seemed to pierce him at every turn and keep him from getting his arms around the animal's back so he could squeeze him to death.

(Tomorrow you'll hear more of this strange fight.)

TIMELY VIEWS & WORLD TOPICS

"AMERICA NEVER AGAIN WILL OPEN IMMIGRATION DOOR TO ALL," SAYS DAVIS

"America will never again maintain an open door toward all the people of the earth."

So says James J. Davis, secretary of labor, who has administration of the immigration bureau.

JAMES J. DAVIS

"A hundred years ago," said Secretary Davis recently, "when America was new, our government had no immigration policy. Life in the new world was not without its hardships, the struggle for a livelihood was keen, and for this reason only the hardiest, the most sturdy, mentally and physically, sought the opportunities of liberty and freedom offered by the young republic. Gradually from this most progressive of foreign stock there was brought forth a nation of people courageous of necessity, patriotic because of the bonds of common struggle against the elements of frontier life, ingenious to overcome the obstacles of time and distance which prevented free intercourse for social and commercial advantages.

"America a hundred years ago did not have an immigration policy because it did not need one. But conditions have changed and the means of transportation improved so that today ocean travel, even the steerage quarters of our great liners, are superior to the housing equipment to which the poorer classes of Europe and Asia are accustomed.

"Our immigration policy first began to form in 1882, when the Chinese exclusion law was enacted. This was soon followed by a few medical and physical requirements for admission, and later, in 1917, a literary examination and a comparatively rigid rule against the admission of the physically and mentally defective.

"Then came the war and immigration ceased. As a military precaution all travelers were required to have passports, properly vised by American officers. The war over, the stream started again and gradually assumed the proportions of a flood which bade fair to sweep all Europe before it. War-torn, poverty-stricken and ravaged by diseases of all descriptions, the inhabitants of whole nations were reported ready to shake the responsibilities of their war by migration to the country which had a reputation for comfort and plenty.

"A study of the statistics showed that certain countries had furnished practically all of our productive, pioneer, hard-working immigrants, and from those countries they had come first. America did not want the hordes which it saw gathering for mass migration, yet did not seek to discourage the types which had formed our basic stock. The analysis of statistics suggested the percentage basis, and this, fixed at three per cent of those here in 1910, is the restrictive law today."

The 5-year-old daughter came from school, and the child's mother, noticing how tired she looked, asked her if there was anything wrong. The little one replied: "Oh, nothing, mother, only I was worrying about you."

"Why, dear, were you worrying about me?" asked the mother.

"Well, because I was afraid you would be worrying about me."—New York Sun.

The Watterbury Case

TODAY'S SHORT STORY, BY
Ad Schuster

When his friends in the force make light of certain of Ed Wylie's attempts at detective work, he refers to the Watterbury case and has his triumph. Everyone admits it was Ed who solved that.

Counting the victim, there were four Watterburys, brothers, who lived in two houses inside a common stone wall. Etham Watterbury, the eldest, enjoyed the reputation of being so irascible that no one could live in the same house. He asserted his position as head of the family by occupying the ancestral home, while each of his brothers had a room in what, in the older days, had been called "the cottage." None of the brothers except John, the youngest, ever spoke to Ethan.

They were a queer lot, Ethan, Nathan, Morton and John, with little to choose as to appearance or disposition. There were those who said John, had it not been for the rest, might have been different. He tried to write, owned a library, and was the only one who was fair of skin. Neighbors often wondered what went on behind the high wall where the four silent men lived. It was known Morton and Nathan were the only two who had ever been seen to leave or enter the place together. It was as if they shared their grudge against old Ethan.

When Ethan Watterbury was killed the gates were opened to the police and, through the press, to the public. The police followed the length of wall, looking for footprints in the soft earth, and went through the ceremony of an investigation. They were certain that one of the brothers had killed Ethan, and that is as far as they could get.

"This is all we have," the captain explained to Ed Wylie, when the lad was asked to help. "There were footprints of a man's shoe, rubber-heeled shoe, from the house to the cottage. The brothers occupy separate rooms. Each denies the crime and any knowledge of the movements of the others. If they stick to their stories I don't know what we can do."

"But the rubber heels?"

"They all wear them, and their feet are all of a size."

Ed tried to cultivate the brothers, to learn something of their habits and dispositions. Nathan and Morton he found to be glum and unresponsive. They did not pretend grief at the death of the brother and refused to discuss the crime. They had denied it once to the police and did not propose to be questioned by any kid.

John was a little different. He offered Ed a chew of tobacco, talked of his uncle apologetically as if trying to find excuse for his ways. In a family of grim and ignorant men he, with his taste for books and his finer ways, was the odd member. The old man had been fond of John, although he would have scorned to admit it, and Nathan and Morton, affecting indifference, were proud of him. Ed Wylie learned what he could of the three, then made his decision.

Nathan, Morton and John sat in old Ethan Watterbury's parlor in the presence of the police captain and Ed Wylie, the first two scowling and resentful. John's face was expressionless. Ed started his report, which was an accusation.

"Ethan Watterbury chewed tobacco which has a small half-moon tag," Ed explained. "No other member of the faimly used that brand. I have here," and he exhibited it, "an impression of the footprints leading away from this house over to the cottage, the ones found the morning after the murder. You will see the half-moon in the mark of the rubber heel. At first I thought it was a trade-mark, but it was on one heel only. Then I discovered the tobacco. The tag had dropped on the floor of Ethan's room and was picked up on the heel of the man who went there."

Ed looked at the three brothers. "None of you visited Ethan in his house. One of you walked over there that night." The lad spoke slowly. "I picked up this tag on the carpet in John Watterbury's room!"

The younger brother half closed his eyes and held tight to the arms of his chair. He made no comment. Nathan and Morton looked at one another and the former growled:

"A dinky tobacco tag is no kind of evidence."

Ed leaned forward and addressed his question to the older man:

"You said you were asleep by 10 o'clock, didn't you. Morton has told the same story. Well, I can prove that John was up later than that, and here is the proof." It was no more than a book. "He borrowed this book on the afternoon before old Ethan was killed. It was on his table opened to show it more than half read the morning after. And then," and this triumphantly, "there are these threads from a brown coat, from the only brown coat in the Watterbury family." Ed walked over to John and placed the threads against the sleeve of a coat which they matched. "This evidence will send any man to jail. And they will send you, John Watterbury!"

"Not much they won't. It was me and Morton what done it!" Nathan Watterbury roared out his confession. "And what's more, I can prove it."

"I snipped the thread from the coat when I found it hanging in John's room. I made the tobacco tag impression myself and invented the book story." Ed told the captain later. "It was a long chance, but I was banking on the only human trait that pair possesses—their pride in John."

Tomorrow—Hideout Phil's Boy.

Daily Fashion Hint

Prepared Especially for The Glendale Evening News

SLIP-ON APRON DRESS

Fashion it of cretonne, unbleached muslin, gingham, percale or chambray and it will be equally charming and serviceable. If preferred, the short kimono sleeves may be lengthened with deep sections gathered into narrow wristbands. A contrasting note could be supplied in pockets of cotton poplin put on with outline or other fancy stitches. Used on apron, the sash may be reduced to a narrow, straight band. Medium size requires 3¼ yards 36-inch material.

Pictorial Review Apron Dress No. 1474. Sizes 36 to 48 inches bust. Price 35 cents.

One elephant killed in the Belgian Congo provided food for 500 natives.

IN ANTICIPATION OF SUMMER

Emphasizing the importance of combining contrasting fabrics in at least one frock, this model selects plain white voile and delicate green voile, polka-dotted in a darker shade of the same color. The sleeves rather slip the responsibility for style success from their shoulders, leaving it to tiny puffs of the printed voile, which are gathered into narrow white bands. If preferred, however, the puffs may be omitted and the kimono sleeves trimmed with turnback cuffs. Medium size requires 2¼ yards 40-inch white and 1⅛ yard 40-inch green voile.

Pictorial Review Dress No. 1596. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust and 16 to 20 years. Price, 35 cents.

THE LIPS

There are two seasons hard on the lips, mid-winter with its frost, and mid-summer with its intense heat. Some people have chapped lips more often in summer than in winter.

That's why I advise lip sticks. Not the colored kind; lips with even a faint red do not need them and pale lips look artificial when painted. It is almost always possible to buy sticks with white cream; in fact, I've found that they're usually half the price. If you can't find them, buy as light a red as you can. The cost is sometimes 15 cents, sometimes a quarter, but the colored sticks are usually half a dollar. They're made of a specially firm cream, nicely perfumed, and if they have any taste at all it is a pleasant one. As one stick will last a year, they're cheaper to buy than to make.

If by any chance you can't find what you like, rub the lips at bedtime with a little warm cocoa butter. It's so heavy and oily that it won't rub off as an ordinary cream would, and its taste—which you're bound to get—is not bad at all. Unless the lips are quite bad, flesh building cream will do; cleansing cream isn't much good, it's too light. Cream rubbed on before going out, or the lip stick applied last thing when you're dressing, will save many cases of chapped and broken lips.

It's a good thing to harden the lips if they're too sensitive. One way is bathe them with salt water every day. At the same time rinse the face with salt water, it's such a good astringent. Camphor cream sometimes heals and hardens sensitive lips, so does alum water, a weak solution of course. The ordinary saturate solution of boracic acid is healing and soothing for lips chapped by frost or sun, or even by a feverish cold in the head. This is made by adding boracic acid powder to luke warm water until it begins to settle at the bottom of the bottle and won't dissolve.

Discouraged—Your oily hair and oily skin probably come from the same cause. Such a condition usually means that the system is so clogged that the skin is being overtaxed in attempting to throw it off. Drink more water, substitute coarse grained wholewheat or bran bread for that from white flour, omit meat or take very little of it, giving preference to a vegetable diet. If you drink plenty of milk in addition you will not feel the need of any richer food, and your skin and hair will show the benefit.

Keeps the lips soft and smooth

Dolly Sisters.—Thin wrists may be developed by massaging them with a rotary motion or by taking up any form of exercise that brings all the muscles into use. It is best to let the nose alone and cultivate other features.

Side Talks

by Ruth Cameron

WHY BE PROUD?

There are many people who seem to take pride in the fact that they do not take any kind of care of themselves.

I suppose that pride is a reaction against the super-care that they see someone else take.

Every hypochondriac drives someone to the opposite extreme of ostentatiously neglecting his own health to prove to himself and others that he isn't a hypochondriac.

But is that extreme really any happier than the other?

It is foolish to get the habit of fretting over all one's little pains and aches, of fancying that every minor discomfort is the symptom of some fatal disease, of talking frequently about diseases. It destroys your own happiness and casts shadow onto other people's lives.

Just as Foolish

But isn't that equally likely to be the result of determined neglect of some persistent trouble?

A man I know has recently spent a long siege in the hospital with appendcitis. He has suffered from that trouble for years, but has refused to consult a doctor. "I'm not going to run to a doctor every time I feel a pain or an ache," he would say when his wife tried to get him to have something done.

When he did finally go to the hospital, the appendix had ruptured and what would have been a very simple operation if he had had it done in the earlier stages became a very serious operation from which it took him twice as long to convalesce.

Was there anything to be proud of in having caused himself twice as much misery and expense as if he had been willing to take the advice of his family?

Pain Is Nature's Warning

Pain is Nature's warning that something is wrong in our complex mechanism, so much more intricate, so much more wonderful than the finest piece of machinery ever built.

A small pain may mean some temporary maladjustment that will right itself. It is only the hypochondriac who worries over every little temporary pain.

But when pain or discomfort persists, in spite of our attempts to ignore it or to banish it by attention to the simple rules of health, isn't it wiser to take the machine to the physician and have it looked over?

Better, surely, than to have it stop suddenly at some time when you have urgent need of its services.

You Can't Be Sick Alone

If we lived to ourselves alone this deliberate neglect of Nature's warnings might be foolish but not culpable.

But no one does live to himself alone. Our lives are part of a complex pattern. Sickness almost always puts a burden on someone else—if not of extra work and extra expense, then of anxiety and nerve strain. It is wrong to be sick if it can possibly be helped. It is wrong to make oneself sick by fretting so much about oneself. It is also wrong to make oneself-sick by neglecting unmistakable warnings.

Don't be thinking all the time of trouble—but when trouble intrudes itself on your notice, deal with it before it becomes serious trouble. That's not cowardice. It's common sense.

I wonder if all my readers know about the new "window sets" which have just sprung into style? These are crocheted of white and colored Cordonnet (or all of plain white if desired) and consist of a tie-back for each curtain and a round, flat "shade pull" with cord, which fastens onto the Holland shade (instead of the usual cord and ring). The set is made as follows:

To Make a Curtain Tie-Back—(Materials for the entire set are two balls each of white and colored Cordonnet, size three, and a size one steel crochet hook.) and the white thread held together, chain 90 stitches. First Row: Five s. c. in first 5 ch., ch. 2, skip 1 ch., 1 d. c. in second ch. (Ch. 2, skip 2, 1 d. c in ch.) three times (ch. 2, skip 2, 1 tr. c. in ch.) five times (ch. 2, skip 2, 1 d. c. in ch.) three times, ch. 2, skip 1, 5 s. c. in next 5 ch., ih. 2, skip 2, and repeat from the beginning.

Now ch. 20 for loop at end (this loop hooks over the wire hook which is screwed into the window woodwork to hold the curtain back). Repeat entire row on the other side of the chain, putting the double crochets and treble crochets in the spaces instead of into the chain. End with 20 ch. (to form the other loop, which hooks over the wire hook, to hold curtain back).

Second Row: 5 s. c. over 5 s. c., taking up both parts of the loop. 2 s. c. each in first and second spaces. 1 s. c. and 1 d. c. in third, 3 d. c. each in fourth, fifth and sixth, 5 d. c. in seventh space, 3 d. c. each in eighth, ninth and tenth spaces, 1 d. c. and 1 s. c. in eleventh space, 2 s. c. each in twelfth and thirteenth, 5 s. c. over 5 s. c., 2 s. c. over 2 ch. Repeat from beginning of row. 22 s. c. over loop of 20 ch. and repeat entire row for the other side.

To Make Curtain Pull: With the two threads together, ch. 4 and join in a ring into which put 8 s. c. and join. Turn and work a second row in opposite direction from the first, taking up both parts of the loop, and increasing enough to keep the work flat. Turn at the end of each row and continue till this flat circle is about one and one-half inches in diameter. Fasten the threads, cutting them off one and one-half yards from the circle, and slip a bead up close. Tie a knot in the threads just above the bead and crochet a chain 10 sts. and fasten stitch, making another knot. Turn the ends of the threads back to this point and fasten firmly, forming a long loop. Slip this loop thruogh a second bead and tie two knots to hold it in place.

Vitamins, No. IX

The authorities on vitamins usually list the vitamin-bearing foods as one plus, two plus and three plus, to indicate their values in vitamins. I am giving you only those that are listed as three plus (highest), and two plus (next highest).

Cut the following list of vitamin foods out and save it. Then every day see that you and your children have a good supply of some of these foods from each list, and you will not suffer a vitamin deficiency. And if you include two or three glasses of milk, which is high in calcium and phosphorus, and a goodly amount of spinach for its iron—these with the other vatimin-bearing foods which you will choose from this list will protect you against a mineral deficiency.

Among the vegetables in this list, notice how valuable tomatoes, cabbage and spinach are, either fresh, dried or canned. These we can have the year around:

ANTI-OPTHALMIC
Three Plus (Highest)

(Fat Soluble A; may also be anti-rachitic vitamin)—Butter, cream, cod liver oil, milk (condensed, evaporated or whole dried), egg yolks, alfalfa, spinach (dried or fresh).

Two Plus (Next Highest)

Wholewheat, orange peel oil, kidney, liver, tomatoes (raw, canned or dried), string beans, carrots, dandelion greens (fresh), lettuce, peas, hubbard squash, sweet potatoes, cheese, eggs.

ANTI-NEURITIC
Three Plus

(Water Soluble B)—Tomatoes (raw, canned or dried), alfalfa, beans, fresh cabbage, fresh spinach, yeast and yeast extract.

Two Plus

Whole grains, brains, kidney and liver, grapefruit, lemon juice, orange juice, cabbage (cooked, fresh and raw), carrots raw (cooked, one plus), cauliflower, dandelion greens, lettuce, onions, parsnips, peas, potatoes (white, raw and cooked), dried spinach, turnips, most nuts, milk (all forms), string beans, egg plant (fresh and dry), rutabaga.

ANTI-SCORBUTIC
Three Plus

(Water Soluble C)—Lemon and orange juice (fresh and dried), raspberries (fresh and dried), tomatoes (raw and canned), cabbage (fresh, raw), lettuce, cloudberries (fresh and canned).

Two Plus

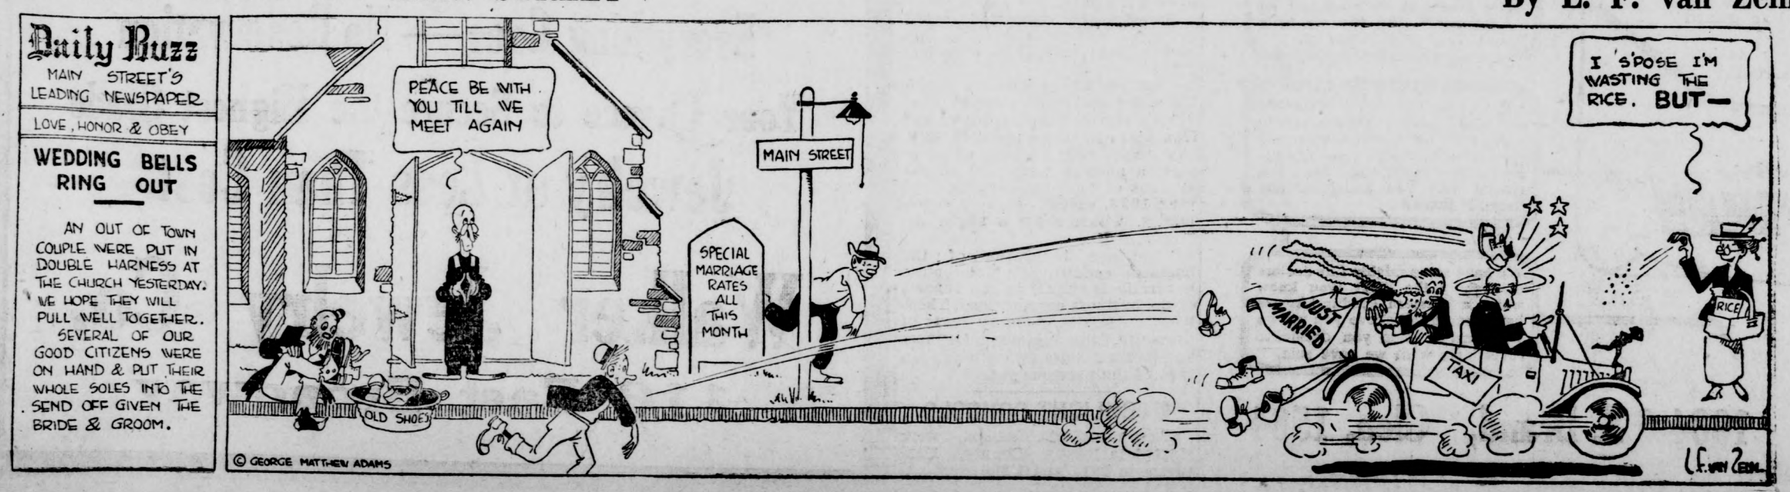

Sprouted grains and legumes, grapefruit, orange peel, dried tomatoes, cabbage (cooked), fresh carrots, raw onions, white potatoes (raw or boiled fifteen minutes; longer cooking, one plus), milk (less than two plus).

Remember that all of the vitamins are necessary, not only to prevent diseases, but to promote normal growth (especially vitamin A) and health, and normal reproduction and lactation. And remember you must get your vitamins in foods and not in the drug stores.

Heart and Home Problems

BY MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl twenty-one years of age. I married a young man five years my senior about one year ago. I, as well as every one else, thought I made a splendid marriage. I soon found out after my marriage that he was selfish and not kind. He makes me work hard and never buys me any nice clothes and I am not having a nice time as I did before. Should I apply for a divorce or keep on living in this manner? Please tell me what to do.

LONESOME BOB.

If you are very unhappy and convinced that you and your husband cannot be happy together, divorce seems the only course. Perhaps, however, you have expected too much of marriage and not realized it is a contract of give as well as take. A man ought to want to make life happier and easier for his wife, while she in turn ought to consider her duty to her husband. When a woman marries a man with a large income it is only natural that she should expect him to provide help in the home and buy her attractive clothes. But if her husband has a small income, his wife should expect to do her own work, make her clothes last as long as possible, and work as hard as her husband does to get ahead.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have a girl and boy friend who think enough of each other to get married, but they are of different religions, and the boy belongs to an order that forbids his changing his religion.

They want to marry without changing his religion, but the boy's parents are strictly against his marrying a girl of her religion although they think the girl is very nice.

This fellow works for his dad and is to take over the business some day, but if he marries this girl he will lose it.

What would you suggest that they do. Please give them a little advice. THANK YOU.

I would advise the boy to change positions so that he can say his soul is his own. It is not worth the price to stay with his father if he loses his independence. Besides it would be good for him to make his way in the business world without having his father to lean on.

In regard to the matter of marriage, the boy and the girl must decide for themselves. No one else can weigh the matter for them and decide whether their love is great enough to stand the strain a difference in religion after marriage and after there are children.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am just a young girl at high school and have become interested in one of the male students. Some time ago he took me home from several of our school affairs and seemed to enjoy taking me out. Since then he has become more popular and I do not see much of him. When I do meet him he mumbles a greeting and doesn't even smile. How can I win his attentions again? STUDENT.

Where is your pride? Why do you want to win back a young man whose interest in you was evidently of a merely casual nature? You took too seriously the slight attention he showed you and probably saw that you did so and determined not to let the affair go any further. If you want him to be friendly to you be just carelessly friendly with him, and take care to keep any signs of sentimentality out of your manner to him.

With the Women of Today

WOMEN THE WORLD OVER

India—Following the removal of sex disqualifications for the vote for the legislative assembly of India, there is a movement to remove the bar preventing women from becoming lawyers. The Mysore Legislative Council has broken the record, so far, in India in regard to woman franchise, as there was not a dissentient voice when the subject was put to a vote last month. Bombay is the first large city in India to start its scheme of compulsory education on the right principle of applying it to boys and girls alike.

Mms. Nellie Melba

Mme. Nellie Melba, the famous opera singer, was reported to have remarked some time ago that she was going to retire to make room for younger singers. This was after a concert at which she sang in Melbourne, Australia, her birthplace. Now, however, it is rumored that she is about to make another debut and in an entirely different line—that of politics. It is said that she is planning to campaign for election to parliament in England.

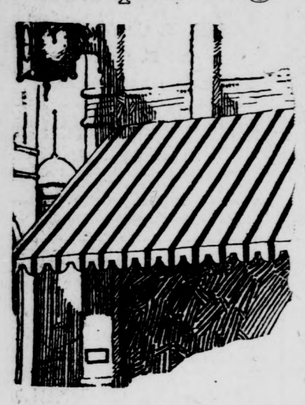

Mme. Melba was born and educated in Australia and is of Scotch and Spanish descent. She studied in Paris under Mme. Marchesi, and made her operatic debut in Brussels as Gilda, in "Gigoletto." This was on October 15, 1887. Her career in London began on May 24, the following year, with a performance of Lucia. Sir Arthur Sullivan formally promised her a part in "The Mikado" "if her performance accorded with her promise," but it was only a short time before she made a brilliant success in grand opera.

Her home until recently has been at Coombe Cottage, Goldstream, Melbourne, Australia.

Science has duplicated the pearl, diamond, ruby and sapphire, but as yet has found no means of reproducing the emerald.

SUNLAND

DISCUSS PROJECT TO ENLARGE PARK

C. of C. Seeks More Land To Meet Demands for Picnic Grounds

At the regular meeting of the Sunland Chamber of Commerce last week the principal matter of discussion was the petition that has been drawn and signed by many hundred residents of the valley and elsewhere, to have the County Supervisors purchase the Rowley property across the road from the park and add it to the park grounds.

Monte Vista park is becoming so popular for both organization and family picnics that the accommodations are many times insufficient and tables cannot be procured except by getting there very early.

Many Signatures

The petition was drawn and circulated several weeks ago. About 1,000 signatures were secured and the indorsements of all valley chambers of commerce except Tujunga were attached to it and presented to the supervisors Monday in Los Angeles. The indorsement of the Tujunga chamber had not been received up to that time. The petition was presented by a committee consisting of Messrs. Henry, Mears and Marsh. It was also endorsed by many other chambers from San Fernando to Alhambra.

The supervisors could not pass on it at the time, as their calendar was full, but promised to consider the matter and report their findings to the chairman of the committee at a later date,

The property adjoining is covered with great oak trees and water is on the surface, making access easy for swimming pools.

Hold Mass Meeting

A mass meeting was held Saturday night at the Monte Vista school house, Sunland for the purpose of consultation on a resolution to authorize the trustees to use surplus county and special fund money belonging to the district to complete payment on the new school building.

Considerable discussion took place and many opinions were advanced. On a regular motion it was voted to draw up a warrant in the regular way and forward to Mark Keppel, superintendent of schools at Los Angeles, to be paid out of any funds available. The amount is some odd $400.

Funds Not Available

According to available records of the district, there is no surplus, and in all probability the amount will not be paid until next year's appropriation is available.

The Ripe Olive cannery is still running in full operation, with about twenty-five sorters and canners. The crop was exceptionally good this year, and the run will not be finished until about the first of July.

Filipinos Celebrate Independence Day

MANILA, P. I., June 13.—Celebrating at Kawit, Cavite, the twenty-fifth annual anniversary of the Filipino declaration of independence, 20,000 veterans paraded in their revolutionary uniforms. They then met at the home of General Aguinaldo, their former chieftain, where Esteban De Lamara, secretary of the navy in Aguinaldo's cabinet, read the declaration and prominent insurrecto leaders made speeches. Aguinaldo addressing the veterans advocated making the sultan of Sulu honorary president of the veterans and the admittance of the Morro insurrectos into the organization. The American national anthem closed the meeting.

Rattlesnake Poison Yields to Gasoline

RENO, Nev., June 13.—Gasoline—and they say there is no mistake — was used effectively near the Wedekind mine in curing the bite of a rattlesnake.

About noon an employe of the mine went to the ditch to get a bucket of water, and in reaching down to fill the bucket the snake struck him on the forearm.

The victim went immediately to the engine house and procured some gasoline, in which he bathed the bite. Later in the day he appeared in as good health as ever.

BURBANK

JUNE'S LISTS OF BRIDES GROWING

Cupid Busy Shooting Darts Into Many Victims Round Burbank

June, "the month of brides and roses," bids fair to break all matrimonial records for this city, reports Dan Cupid at the Bureau of Romance.

Even building permits for the current month have been exceeded in value by permits to marry—for the partners to a matrimonial enterprise invariably lay foundations for $1,000,000 structures!

So thick and fast have the arrows from Cupid's bow been flying that no one can be adjudged immune, and even to walk about the streets this June, in Burbank, carries with it a decided hazard; while to attend one of the innumerable social functions where young folks abound is to take "single blessedness" in your own hands, so to speak.

Instances are on record where arrows have gone astray and struck those for whom they were by no means intended, and yet nevertheless with fatal results—to "freedom."

Tipped with honey are these flying arrows, say the young folks, while the elder Romeos and Juliets of the community claim for them a medicinal quality; and there are a few cynical enough to shake doleful heads and mutter "vinegar"—whereas most likely it is "sour grapes."

Among Those Smitten

Miss Mary Ostergard, a native of Burbank and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ostergard of Glendale, was recently given a shower that was an exceptionally delightful social event, in honor of her approaching marriage on June 26 to Elvin Hall of Corcoran.

The shower was given by Mrs. Frank Clark and Mrs. Raymond Swaim, at the latter's home, 611 Olive avenue. Pleasing and lovely gifts, extremely useful to the bride-to-be, were received.

A shower was also recently given for Miss Lucille Gumm, by her aunt, Mrs. J. A. Swall, at her home, 918 Angeleno avenue. About fifteen friends were present and brought with them delightful gifts.

Miss Gumm became Mrs. Robert Humphries at 11 o'clock last Saturday morning, June 9, after which the couple enjoyed a wedding breakfast at the Sunset Canyon Country club, with J. A. Small as host, covers being laid for twenty-five.

The Sunset Canyon Country Club was also recently the scene of a shower given in honor of Miss Nancy Connard, who will, on June 21, become the bride of Chester Taft. Misses Marionne Small and Virginia Young were hostesses, the party consisting of nine young women.

Weds "Hello" Girl

The telephone company and the police department were united in "bonds of holy matrimony" last week, June 2, when Miss Gladys Trout, a "hello girl," and George Miller, a "copper," were wedded at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Huldah Trout, 560 Palm avenue.

A wedding supper was served, with twenty guests present, all of them relatives.

Mrs. Miller reported for duty at the local telephone office the following Monday morning, as she has done for the past three years, while her husband drifted over to the law enforcement headquarters, as usual, both parties to the contract deciding to continue in their present occupations.

Miss Mildred B. Farney, from Miami, Fla., has become the bride of Edward P. Wurtz, a city employe. They were quietly married in Riverside on Saturday, June 2, and are now living at the Anita apartments, in this city. Mrs. Wurtz is a talented musician and was active in musical and social circles of Miami.

And, of course, it should not be forgotten that Lieut. Harry B. Watson, well known local Legionnaire, recently "hitched his wagon to a star"—the star being Anna Q. Nilsson of film fame. Of course, it was only a "mock marriage," but it was very convincing!

The affair took place at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

LA CRESCENTA

PRESENTS PUPIL IN L. A. RECITAL

Talented Pianist Will Be Introduced to Music Circles Saturday

Miss Marguerite Hauber, well-known local musician, is presenting one of her pupils in a piano recital on Saturday evening, June 16. The recital will be held in the Old Chapel, 35th and University avenue, Los Angeles.

Miss Bealah Leitzell, the pupil presented, is the daughter of Rev. Leitzel, assistant pastor of the First M. E. church, 8th and Hope street, Los Angeles. Miss Leitzell graduates this year from High school and is a special student of the College of Music, University Southern California. In her many public appearances Miss Leitzel has been exceptionally well received and on this occasion will be assisted by Miss Hildegarde Wilkinson, soprano, who is a pupil of Lillian Backstrand. Her accompanist will be Miss Delphia Comer. Many of Miss Hauber's La Crescenta pupils and families are expecting to motor to Los Angeles to enjoy this recital.

Make Up for Picnic

Notices have been sent to all parents that school will commence at 8 a. m. for the few remaining days to make up the time taken off for the school picnic on Friday.

W. Singleton, local realty man has left for Chicago on a business trip of short duration. Mrs. Singleton is remaining at home.

The little white house on the corner of Hermosa and Los Angeles avenues has been leased for a period of one year, through the Mark Collins realty office.

Mrs. Mary B. Darrow, librarian of the local branch of Los Angeles county free library, announces she will open the library on Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 this week only, instead of Friday afternoon. This is so the children who attend the school picnic may get their books instead of waiting till next Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Hauber and daughter Miss Marguerite Hauber, had as their week-end guest, Miss Bertha Holz. The party motored over the ridge route, and report a most delightful trip.

New houses are springing up over-night in La Crescenta, and resemble the fabled mushroom for rapid growth.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wildhack and daughter, Marjorie, have returned from their visit at Palm Springs. Mr. Wildhack is well know for his clever cartoons in "Life."

Mr. Stroupe of Honolulu avenue has joined the sales force of the Howard-Merwin realty office. Mr. Stroupe is an expert oil man and feels confident in a short time oil interests will become interested in the possibilities in these hills.

A SAVAGE TIRE "AD"—WITH COMMENTS — No. 4 OF A SERIES

Have you ever been "behind the scenes" and watched the "mechanics" of a play as it is being "put on"? Something fascinating about it, isn't there?—seeing how things are done and the effect produced. We thought possibly you might be interested in getting a similar view of the "how and why" of a Savage Tire "ad" so we're putting some comments on the side. We hope to merit your confidence in what we say by relating facts only.

Royal B. Lee, Advertising Manager.

COPYRIGHT 1923 S.S.T. CO.

the SAVAGE CORD IS BUILT TO EXCEL

As first presented to the motoring public, the Savage Aristocrat Cord contained 17 outstanding constructional features that made it a truly remarkable tire by comparison with every other make.

Other good makes of tires are using some of these same features, it is true—but no other product that we know of begins to embody them all.

To make it a better tire yet, slight changes have been made in the construction of the Aristocrat from time to time—and others undoubtedly will be made as time goes on, for we are sincere in our efforts to maintain a leadership with this product that will make it recognized as "the greatest cord tire value on the American market."

In the final analysis, the service it renders on the road—under the many varying conditions a tire is subjected to—determines how nearly we have accomplished our purpose. The comments of hosts of people who will buy nothing else leads us to believe we have gained and are maintaining the leadership we covet.

Yes, the Savage "Aristocrat" Cord is built to excel.

Our dealers can show its superiority to you readily.

For Satisfaction, Quality or Price Buy SAVAGE TIRES FROM NEARBY DEALERS

For people of an analytical turn of mind this illustration and the lettering that goes with it will be very interesting. They can learn something from it. It will show them, for the first time, possibly, something of how a tire is built, the different parts that go into it, and some of the things that should be considered when buying a tire.

This heading does several things. It tells a complete story. Any reader who sees this page will get that much of a message—if nothing else. It refers to the illustration. And it acts as a title to the text that follows.

I wonder if our message here is clear? We have tried to be fair in our statements. We don't shout from the housetops that "Savage Tires are the Best Tires on Earth" WE may think they are but then we realize we are apt to be prejudiced so we admit that there are other good tires too. Just the same, we proceed to show WHY we have faith in our own proposition.

A Savage Tire ad wouldn't be complete without an Indian figure in it. Here our trade character, Little Heap, is showing you an "Aristocrat"—the tire we have been talking about in this ad.

I don't expect you to buy Savage Tires just because we ask you to—but when we show you some good reasons why it is to your advantage to buy them, there isn't any reason why you shouldn't buy them, is there?

We have some mighty fine dealers throughout the West (you know we're a Western Product) so we have reason to believe you will be well served when you decide to investigate what we have said.

Income Sufficient to Pay State's Expense

SACRAMENTO, June 13.—Definite announcement that there will be no ad valorem tax during the coming fiscal year is made by the state board of equalization. The board reported that the income for the fiscal period will exceed $40,000,000, the sum stipulated by the legislature as necessary to maintain the state government during the year.

Assessments completed will bring in $36,195,353.30, an increase of $1,416,032.35 over last year.

Commenting on business conditions, the equalization board says:

"All classes of utilities and franchise companies represented in the state's tax sources show at least a normal increase in the amount of business during the year 1922, except express companies, which show a slight decrease.

"The best indication of the business conditions of the state generally is shown in the reports of the business corporations. These show uniformly, from all parts of the state, both increased business and better results of business than that of the previous year."
